Women and Employment in Public Policy Susan Milner, 2024-07-20 In the UK women s economic empowerment through employment is a success story of the last three decades And yet women are over represented in low paid insecure jobs are under represented in top jobs and earn less than men on average with a marked income gap over the lifecourse When Labour took office in 1997 a new wave of women MPs entered parliament in record numbers and women gained access to ministerial roles including a newly created minister for women However policy on women and employment remained an area of conflict New rights were secured particularly for mothers but when Labour left office a sizeable policy agenda remained unfinished Using documentary evidence and interviews from leading policy actors from the period Women and Employment in Public Policy takes as its starting point the Women and Work Commission which was convened in 2004 to examine causes of the gender pay gap The commission was unable to defuse conflicts over equal pay but it set out an agenda for change at the level of government private sector work organizations and public sector organizations Milner examines why the commission could not resolve key conflicts and why its broad based recommendations were only partially taken up She traces the subsequent development of policy observing well established preferences for light touch regulation which can raise awareness but leave entrenched practices unchallenged and weaken individual women s access to redress Detailed study of the working of the commission provides lessons on the policy process particularly for those seeking to influence policy It also shows that within the wider policy space opportunities for action to effect change are possible based on appeals to instrumental logic or political exchange but are constrained by party leadership

Jobs for the Girls Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Trade and Industry Committee, 2005-05-19 Occupational segregation has a major effect on the gender pay gap in the UK and deprives employers of potential recruits a fact of particular importance in areas of skills shortages The Committee s report examines occupational segregation and the associated tendancies for predominantly female occupations to be lower paid and undervalued It focuses on four key aspects the lack of knowledge about career options as a barrier to young people choosing non traditional occupations problems in accessing training in atypical areas difficulties with alien or sometimes even hostile business culture and the lack of availability of part time or flexible working in the higher paid occupations and at senior levels in all occupations The Committee expresses its support for the work of the Sector Skills Councils in addressing this problem and in disseminating good practice and argues that other organisations such as trade associations and Regional Development Agencies should become more active in this area The Committee also calls on the Government to review equal pay legislation to try and make the principle of equal pay for work of equal value more effective Walford's Guide to Current British Periodicals in the Humanities and Social Sciences Library Association,1985 Roadmap of the Virginia SOL Gloria Levine,Princeton Review (Firm),2005 Roadmap to the Virginia SOL EOC English Writing includes strategies that are proven to enhance student performance The experts at The Princeton Review provide tips for staying focused within our special Writing Frame detailed lessons complete with test taking techniques for improving test scores and review questions for each writing concept covered 2 complete practice Virginia SOL EOC English Writing tests Benn's Media Directory ,1989
