It Can Happen Betty McInnis, 2010-10 Craig McPherson lives a mundane life He's a family man who owns an oil company and he spends most of his days bored and dissatisfied But fate has something else in mind Seemingly without reason Craig gets pulled into a tragic murder suicide investigation The murder suicide has nothing to do with Craig and his company or does it Soon he finds himself caught between two foreign oil cartels both competing for his company and his expertise Like a marionette controlled by unseen hands Craig is yanked back and forth in a struggle for power The cartels are fighting for ownership of the world's oil supply a direct threat to the United States and Craig is standing in their way In order to survive he must join the fight risking his own life and the lives of his family But Craig McPherson isn't a soldier or a terrorist He's a regular guy living a regular life who must now use his intellect to save his family from certain death and the United States from unfriendly domination He must conceive a plan to trap his adversaries and beat them at their own game using himself as bait Suddenly Craig's mundane life as a CEO and father doesn't seem so awful

Rationality and the Reflective Mind Keith Stanovich, 2010-11-01 In Rationality and the Reflective Mind Keith Stanovich attempts to resolve the Great Rationality Debate in cognitive science the debate about how much irrationality to ascribe to human cognition He shows how the insights of dual process theory and evolutionary psychology can be combined to explain why humans are sometimes irrational even though they possess remarkably adaptive cognitive machinery Stanovich argues that to fully characterize differences in rational thinking we need to replace dual process theories with tripartite models of cognition Using a unique individual differences approach he shows that the traditional second system System 2 of dual process theory must be further divided into the reflective mind and the algorithmic mind Distinguishing them will allow us to better appreciate the significant differences in their key functions The key function of the reflective mind is to detect the need to interrupt autonomous processing and to begin simulation activities whereas that of the algorithmic mind is to sustain the processing of decoupled secondary representations in cognitive simulation Stanovich then uses this algorithmic reflective distinction to develop a taxonomy of cognitive errors made on tasks in the heuristics and biases literature He presents the empirical data to show that the tendency to make these thinking errors is not highly related to intelligence Using his tripartite model of cognition Stanovich shows how when both are properly defined rationality is a more encompassing construct than intelligence and that IQ tests fail to assess individual differences in rational thought He then goes on to discuss the types of thinking processes that would be measured if rational thinking were to be assessed as IQ has been
