Only a few students participate in the discussion.	While the teacher may use some low-level questions, the general questioning strategy to promote student thinking is understating. The teacher's questioning is not used to an extraordinary degree, providing adequate time for students to respond and engaging in the follow-up question is appropriate. The teacher challenges students to justify their thinking. A consistently engages most students in the discussion, and provides a range of strategies to ensure that most students are heard.	The teacher uses a variety of methods, why students or groups to challenge students to explain why their answers are high-level thinking and if necessary, and promote understanding. Students formulate strong answers, indicate topics, challenges or alternative thinking, and make students that contribute. Students themselves ensure that all voices are heard in the discussion.
3c: The learning materials, materials, and strategies are poorly aligned with the learning standards, or require only one response, with only one approach possible. The grouping of students are unsuitable to the activity. The lesson has been poorly defined, and the learning standards have not been met.
