Irish Childhood Ruth Illingworth,2018-08-08 1950s Ireland was the age of De Valera and John Charles McQuaid It was the age before television Vatican II and home central heating A time when motor cars and public telephones had wind up handles when boys wore short trousers and girls wore ribbons when nuns wore white bonnets and priests wore black hats in church To the young people of today the 1950s seem like another age But for those who played learned and worked at this time this era feels like just yesterday This delightful collection of memories will appeal to all who grew up in 1950s Ireland and will jog memories about all aspects of life as it was Irish History Matters Professor Brian M. Walker,2019-06-17 While knowledge of history can explain our contemporary situation an awareness of the myths and misuses of our history can bring a broader and more conciliatory approach to current political and social challenges History or more correctly views of the past or historical myths have shaped politics in both Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland These views served in part to cause and sustain the Troubles Eventually many historical perceptions were challenged which helped to promote the peace process New ideas of revised and shared history were important These changes are explored here The public expression of history in Ireland through commemoration of important historical events and persons is investigated in a number of chapters The impact of historical developments on identity is studied not just in Ireland north and south but also among the Irish
