Contesting Aging Loss Contesting Aging Loss:

Contesting Aging & Loss Janice Elizabeth Graham, Peter H. Stephenson, 2010-01-01 This volume invites readers to re-imagine the losses of aging by listening to the views of elders themselves. Researchers, students of aging, and policy makers should find this work most enlightening. Athena McLean, Central Michigan University. Challenging Aging: The Anti-senescence Effects of Hormesis, Environmental Enrichment and Information Exposure Marios Kyriazis, 2016-08-30 Age-related degeneration may be reduced or even eliminated by positively challenging the human being physically or cognitively to up-regulate somatic repair functions. Exposure to meaningful information and a challenging environment act as hormetic stressors which in the context of an increasingly technological setting may invoke evolutionary mechanisms that lead to a persistent maintenance of homeostasis. Thus, there is a strong link between environmental factors and ongoing health leading to an individual's ability to continually adapt to age-related challenges. Challenging Ageing: The Anti-senescence Effects of Hormesis, Environmental Enrichment and Information Exposure explains the role of hormesis in anti-aging processes followed by information on vitagenes, epigenetics, environmental enrichment, and germlines. The monograph also brings newer concepts and theories to the fore such as environmental enrichment and technoculture. Medical professionals and general readers alike will gain a new perspective on the processes that counter aging processes in the human being. The Becoming of Age Pamela H. Gravagne, 2013-05-08 The Becoming of Age is an examination of the ways that aging and old age are represented in popular film. Arguing that the ideas behind cinematic depictions of aging are historical and open to revision, the author looks at how movies both promote negative portrayals of aging and challenge its persistent cultural devaluation. Movies are a site of struggle where the representation and the reality of aging intertwine and they have the power not only to reflect but to reconstruct our understanding. Aging in a Changing World Molly George, 2021-10-15 Aging in a Changing World challenges simplified images of old people as racist, nostalgic, and resistant to change stereotypes that have only grown more prevalent with the Brexit vote and the 2016 election of Donald Trump. This book takes a deep, nuanced look at the experiences of older people who, while aging in place, have been profoundly impacted by global population movement and the dramatic development of modern multiculturalism around them. Challenging Depression: The Go-To Guide for Clinicians and Patients (Go-To Guides for Mental Health) Mark Zetin, Cara T. Hoepner, Jennifer Kurth, 2010-10-25 Here, both therapist and client will learn the causes of depression, how to recognize and diagnose the different iterations of depression, the wide variety of psychotherapeutic and psychopharmacological treatment options available, and how to get the most out of those treatments. Zetin, Hoepner, and Kurth explain the causes of depression, how to recognize and diagnose the different iterations of depression, and the wide variety of psychotherapeutic and psychopharmacological treatment options available. Even more important, they show patients how to best work with their clinicians and clinicians how to best help their patients. The book is liberally sprinkled with case discussions which demystify

the treatment protocols and show the various ways that clients respond to treatment In this book medical professionals have a go to desk reference for their questions about depression and consumers have a friendly accessible introduction to an otherwise intimidating disorder Fighting for More Golden Years: Battling Disease and Embracing Hope After Age 65

Daniel Muller,2025-03-25 This is my personal story of battling leukemia as I entered my so called golden years Turning 65 marked the beginning of a series of profound changes brought on by both family struggles and personal health challenges Eventually I was diagnosed with a rare form of leukemia I endured grueling chemotherapy fought through debilitating side effects and then faced yet another blow new heart complications and the looming possibility of a second entirely different cancer The two years chronicled in this story are about more than just survival they are about fighting to hold on to my golden years for as long as possible while seeking hope through faith and the support of loved ones There are many books about miraculous recoveries and countless guides on maintaining a long healthy life through diet exercise and wellness habits But this is a different kind of story It is about confronting the stark realities of a declining quality of life and the ever present specter of death while still striving to remain positive hopeful and grounded in faith one day at a time Learning to Be Old Margaret Cruikshank,2013-02-14 This work examines what it means to grow old in America today The book questions social myths and fears about aging sickness and the other social roles of the elderly the over medicalization of many older people and ageism Here the author proposes alternatives to the ways aging is usually understood in both popular culture and mainstream gerontology She does not propose the ideas of successful aging or productive aging but more the idea of learning how to age Featuring new research and analysis the third edition of this text demonstrates more thoroughly than the previous editions that aging is socially constructed The book focuses on the differences in aging for women and men as well as for people in different socioeconomic groups The author is able to put aging in a broad context that not only focuses on how aging affects women but men as well Key updates in the third edition include changes in the health care system changes in how long older Americans are working especially given the impact of the recession and new material on the brain and mind body interconnections The author challenges conventional ideas about aging and brings forth some new ideas surrounding aging in America today Challenging the Limits of the Human Life Span Wulf Dröge,2010-07-21

Interventions that delay aging are expected to improve health In the current US National Institute on Agings Interventions Testing Program ITP the immunosuppressive drug rapamycin was found to increase the maximum life span in mice These mice started receiving this treatment at an age corresponding to 60 years in humans Rapamycin targets the same mechanism which was critically involved in the life span extension previously seen in certain mutants of worms flies and mice The maximum life span was increased in some of these mutants by more than 250 percent suggesting 1 that the maximum life span is limited by a common mechanism of death and 2 that humans may possibly gain a few more decades beyond 120 years by interfering in this mechanism As rapamycin has important adverse effects this books looks into the underlying mechanisms and describes several natural interventions likely to decrease the rate of aging without using pharmacological drugs

Janice Graham, Peter Stephenson, 2010-04-26 Disease and death are a part of life but so too is being well The lively voices found in this book are not shy about stating the ways in which the widely held notion that they are in decline has been a far larger problem than many other features of their lives For students scholars and policy makers the message is to attend to these voices and to design and build better programs that address the social determinants of healthy aging and social inclusion throughout the life course

British Warship Losses in the Age of Sail, 1649-1859 David Hepper, 2023-12-30 This significant new reference book provides a complete list of the ships of the Royal Navy which were lost at sea in the age of sail Arranged in chronological order it includes outline details of each vessel lost and the circumstances of her loss 1649 is the start date which coincides with the execution of Charles I and that time when the Royal Navy entered a new phase as an instrument of state the launch of the steam powered and iron hulled Warrior in 1860 effectively marks the end of the great era of the wooden hulled sailing warship Life at sea in the age of sail was a hazardous pursuit and there were many reasons for a ship being lost A correspondent to the Nautical Magazine in 1841 detailed some fifty reasons and causes from being short of crew abandonment without sufficient cause the poor condition of a ship incorrectness of charts poor dead reckoning as well as less obvious reasons such as the presence of captains wives and other women Navigational error particularly before the chronometer allowed for the accurate calculation of longitude was a common reason while poor weather in the form of fog or gales was an obvious peril So many ships suffered the melancholy fate of lonely disappearance overwhelmed by storm and sea and witnessed by none Collisions and fire feature regularly as does of course loss to the enemy Each entry includes details of the ship its name and type tonnage and dimensions origin and place of build the circumstances of the loss the date and a list of the main references used All this material is presented here in a single and highly accessible volume and represents a major milestone both in naval research and publishing it offers too a fund of fascinating and compelling stories of maritime misadventure Praise for the author s previous work This volume is an amazing encyclopaedic catalogue of British warships lost between 1920 and 1982 It is strongly recommended to historians authors researchers and all those with an interest in the history of the Royal Navy and the Second World War Scuttlebut Magazine Finding and Fighting
