Diplomacy and Borderlands Katharina Coleman, Markus Kornprobst, Annette Seegers, 2019-10-28 This book examines Africa's internal and external relations by focusing on three core concepts: orders, diplomacy and borderlands. The contributors examine traditional and non-traditional diplomatic actors and domestic, regional, continental and global orders. They argue that African diplomats profoundly shape these orders by situating themselves within in-between spaces of geographical and functional orders. It is in these borderlands that agency, despite all kinds of constraints, flourishes. Chapters in the book compare domestic orders to regional ones and then continental African orders to global ones. They deal with a range of functional orders including development, international trade, human rights, migration, nuclear arms control, peacekeeping, public administration and territorial change. By focusing on these topics, the volume contributes to a better understanding of African international relations, sharpens analyses of ordering processes in world politics and adds to our comprehension of how diplomacy shapes orders and vice versa. The studies collected here show a much more nuanced picture of African agency in African and international affairs and suggest that African diplomacy is far more extensive than is often assumed. This book will be of much interest to students of diplomacy studies, African politics and International Relations.

Contested Property Claims Maja Hojer Bruun, Patrick Joseph Cockburn, Bjarke Skærlund Risager, Mikkel Thorup, 2017-12-01 Property relations are such a common feature of social life that the complexity of the web of laws, practices and ideas that allow a property regime to function smoothly are often forgotten. But we are quickly reminded of this complexity when conflict over property erupts. When social actors confront a property regime, for example by squatting, they enact what can be called contested property claims. As this book demonstrates, these confrontations raise crucial issues of social justice and show the ways in which property conflicts often reflect wider social conflicts. Through a series of case studies from across the globe, this multidisciplinary anthology brings together works from anthropologists, legal scholars and geographers who show how exploring contested property claims offers a privileged window onto how property regimes function as well as an illustration of the many ways that the institution of property shapes power relationships today.

Securitisation in the Non-West Simon Mabon, Saloni Kapur, 2018-08-30 The concept of securitisation has gained increasing prominence in the past decade. Initially developed in Copenhagen, the term has been used to describe the broadening of the security agenda and the framing of particular issues as existential threats across the world. In spite of this prominence, very little work has been undertaken that questions the extent to which the concept can be applied beyond the Western world. This volume engages with these questions, providing a theoretical overview of issues with using the concept.
