Peace Anatol Rapoport,1992 In Peace An Idea Whose Time Has Come noted mathematician and peace researcher Anatol Rapoport explores the evolution of the idea of peace and explains why it is displacing war as a viable institution Professor Rapoport ventures into uncharted philosophical territory by drawing on both the natural and the social sciences to trace the development of the ideas of war and peace He argues that the theory of evolution and processes analogous to natural selection can explain not only biological events but also the development of the institution of war Thus the clashes of armed hordes at the dawn of history were the ancestors of our present battles using automated weapons while Isaiah s prophecy of total disarmament And they shall beat their swords into ploughshares anticipates the resolutions of the United Nations Rapoport explains that although the institution of war enjoys a long history and continues to be a policy option today it may soon fall into disuse either by losing its relevance to modern life or by destroying the civilizations that practice it He then calls attention to ideas that lie dormant until people's ideational environment becomes receptive to their germination peace Anatol Rapoport believes is one such idea Peace continues in the interdisciplinary tradition that has taken root in inquiries at the nexus of science and philosophy No specific technical knowledge is expected of the reader only a willingness to venture into little charted areas of thought

Seeing Fictions in Film George M. Wilson, 2011-10-27 In works of literary fiction it is a part of the fiction that the words of the text are being recounted by some work internal voice the literary narrator One can ask similarly whether the story in movies is told in sights and sounds by a work internal subjectivity that orchestrates them a cinematic narrator George M Wilson argues that movies do involve a fictional recounting an audio visual narration in terms of the movie's sound and image track Viewers are usually prompted to imagine seeing the items and events in the movie's fictional world and to imagine hearing the associated fictional sounds However it is much less clear that the cinematic narration must be imagined as the product of some kind of narrator of a work internal agent of the narration Wilson goes on to examine the further question whether viewers imagine seeing the fictional world face to face or whether they imagine seeing it through some kind of work internal mediation It is a key contention of this book that only the second of these alternatives allows one to give a coherent account of what we do and do not imagine about what we are seeing on the screen Having provided a partial account of the foundations of film narration the final chapters explore the ways in which certain complex strategies of cinematic narration are executed in three exemplary films David Fincher's Fight Club von Sternberg's The Scarlet Empress and the Coen brothers' The Man Who Wasn't There
