Handbook of Health Promotion and Disease Prevention James M. Raczynski, Ralph J. DiClemente, 2013-11-11 The idea for this volume developed when we were co-teaching our introductory master's level course in the Department of Health Behavior at the UAB School of Public Health a core course for all masters of public health students in the school regardless of the department in which they enrolled or the focus of their studies Hence in the course we sought to provide both students in our department as well as those who might not ever again take a health behavior course with an overview that would both truly represent the field and substantially provide educational research and public health practice benefits This was and continues to be a challenge with the diversity of students specializing in fields that include not only health behavior but also bio statistics environmental health sciences epidemiology health care organization and policy international health and maternal and child health The course that we taught attempted to provide the students with an overview of some of the important health promotion and disease prevention theories methods and policy issues while reviewing applications of these theories and methods to promoting health and preventing disease through a variety of channels for a variety of disease outcomes and among a variety of populations Since no one text provided this variety of readings we depended on readings and guest lectures

Domestic Violence, Forced Marriage and "honour"-based Violence Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Home Affairs Committee, 2008 Domestic violence is the largest cause of morbidity worldwide in women aged 19-44 greater than war cancer or motor vehicle accidents According to the British Crime Survey 1 in 4 women and 1 in 6 men in the UK will experience domestic violence at some point in their lives The vast majority of serious and recurring violence is perpetuated by men towards women Domestic violence accounts for 16 per cent of all violent incidents reported to or recorded by the police Around 2 women a week are killed by their partner or former partner Domestic violence is estimated to have cost the UK 25.3 billion in 2005-06 Home Office figures suggest there are around 12 honour killings each year but the total is likely to be far higher The Government s Forced Marriage Unit deals with 5 000 enquiries and 300 cases of forced marriage each year 30 per cent of these concern under 18s and 15 per cent are men

The Committee concludes the Government approach to all forms of domestic violence is disproportionately focused on criminal justice responses at the expense of effective prevention and early intervention There are also serious concerns about the amount of refuge space for those fleeing violence and the provision of domestic violence services is a postcode lottery Availability of Probation Service perpetrator programmes is so poor some courts cannot use them as sentencing options The Department for Children Schools and Families should introduce an explicit statutory requirement for schools to educate children about domestic and honour based violence and forced marriage Front line professionals teacher health professionals visa entry clearance officers police judges and magistrates who come into contact with victims should receive accredited training to enable them to identify abuse and refer the victim to appropriate support
