Dancefloor-Driven Literature Simon A. Morrison, 2020-05-14 Almost as soon as club culture took hold during the UK's Second Summer of Love in 1988 its sociopolitical impact became clear with journalists filmmakers and authors all keen to use this cultural context as source material for their texts This book uses that electronic music subculture as a route into an analysis of these principally literary representations of a music culture why such secondary artefacts appear and what function they serve The book conceives of a new literary genre to accommodate these stories born of the dancefloor dancefloor driven literature Using interviews with Irvine Welsh author of Trainspotting 1994 alongside other dancefloor driven authors Nicholas Blincoe and Jeff Noon as case studies the book analyzes three separate ways writers draw on electronic dance music in their fictions interrogating that very particular intermedial intersection between the sonic and the linguistic It explores how such authors write about something so subterranean as the nightclub scene and analyses what specific literary techniques they deploy to write lucidly and fluidly about the metronomic beat of electronic music and the chemical accelerant that further alters that relationship

Managing Art Peter Bendixen, 2010 Arts Management is anything but a mere amalgamation of the world of the arts and the world of business management it is the confrontation of two opposing methodologies one being a field of human creativity that produces something new that did not exist before the other one diving into the existing world of business practices in order to improve their efficiency Some references to cultural philosophy economic and arts history and other important subjects are indispensable or at least helpful in understanding the chances and risks of arts management practices This is the aim of this book which is based on more than twenty years of teaching researching and consulting in the field of cultural administration and arts management
