Milton in the Arab-Muslim World Islam Issa, 2016-10-14 The first full length study of the reception of John Milton s 1608 74 writings in the Arab Muslim world this book examines the responses of Arab Muslim readers to Milton s works and in particular to his epic poem Paradise Lost It contributes to knowledge of the history development and ways in which early modern writings are read and understood by Muslims By mapping the literary and more broadly cultural consequences of the censure translation and abridgement of Milton s works in the Arab Muslim world this book analyses the diverse ways in which Arab Muslims read and understand a range of literary and religious aspects of Milton's writing in light of cultural, theological, socio-political, linguistic and translational issues. After providing an overview of the presence of Milton and his works in the Arab world, each chapter sheds light on how cultural and translational issues shape the ways in which Arab Muslim readers perceive and understand the characters and motifs of Paradise Lost. Chapters outline the ways in which the figures are currently understood in Milton scholarship before exploring how they fit into the narrative drama and theology of the poem and their position in Islamic creed and Arab Muslim culture. Concurrently, each chapter examines the poem's subject matter in detail, placing particular emphasis on matters of linguistic, theological and cultural translation and accommodation. Chapter conclusions not only summarise the patterns and potentialities of reception but point towards the practical functions of Arab Muslim responses to Milton's writing and their contribution to the formation of social ideas.

Asian English Language Classrooms Handoyo Widodo, Alistair Wood, Deepti Gupta, 2017-06-14. The teaching of English in the Asian context is always challenging and dynamic because both teachers and learners have diverse linguistic and cultural backgrounds. Equally important where English is not widely used outside the classroom, English language classrooms are an authentic site of learner engagement. For these reasons, for all those concerned with contemporary English language teaching, ELT in Asia: Asian English Language Classrooms Where Theory and Practice Meet provides an account of theoretical orientations and practices in the teaching of English to multilingual speakers whose primary language is not English. While covering the fundamental ELT areas, e.g. the teaching of language skills, educational literature, the use of technology in ELT, the role of pragmatics in ELT, social psychology of the language classroom and language classroom management, with which every language teacher and teacher trainer must be concerned, this volume showcases how particular orientations shape ELT practices. We believe that practicing English teachers must have a heightened awareness of the theory behind their practice. At the same time, the theoretical stance must be firmly anchored in actual classrooms. Containing newly commissioned chapters written by well-regarded and emerging scholars, this book will appeal not only to beginning teachers or teachers in training but also to established teachers around Asia where English is used as a lingua franca. If you are a student teacher of English or an English teacher who would like to see what other progressive teachers like you are doing across Asia, this is the book you have been looking for.

It is purportedly an example of musar, a compilation of wise epigrams and meshalim parables that teach moral lessons on different topics such as the service of God, friendship, the deceitfulness of the world, medicine, logic, music, magic and poetry. However, it is in reality a compendium of sayings that reveal the author's personal views and feelings on a variety of religious topics, secular sciences and their practitioners. David Torollo presents a fluent and illuminating English-Hebrew parallel text based on four sixteenth-century witnesses: three manuscripts and a printed edition. A rigorous study accompanies and contextualises the Hebrew work, exploring Sefer ha-Pardes's transmission.
