Chapter 5: "Earth's Weather"

EARTH'S ATMOSPHERE

- The troposphere is the layer of gas closest to the surface of the Earth. It is the layer of the atmosphere where most of Earth's weather occurs. It also contains 99 % of the air in the atmosphere.
- As you get higher in the atmosphere, the space between particles increases which causes the air pressure to decrease. Therefore, the top of a mountain has less air pressure than the base of a mountain.

1) What is air pressure?

Air pressure is the force put on a given area by the weight of the air above it.

2) The lower the altitude, the higher the atmospheric pressure.

3) Name the three variables that can change air pressure.

The three variables that can change air pressure are volume, temperature, and humidity/amount of water vapor.

4) Mercury and aneroid are two types of barometers that are used to measure atmospheric pressure.

5) What would the weather conditions probably be like in an area with high barometric pressure? Would it have a high or low altitude?

The weather conditions in an area with high barometric pressure would probably be cold and dry conditions with low altitude.

6) Name one place on Earth that would most likely have low barometric pressure. Why (what are the weather conditions usually like)?

One place on Earth that would most likely have low barometric pressure would be Florida because it is warm and humid. (wet weather means low barometric pressure)
(dry weather means high barometric pressure...example: Death Valley)

changing This study guide will equip theology students to understand the culture shaping beliefs that are driving the kinds of questions it brings to faith It will be an historical overview of the key stages in the history of Western philosophy with each section carefully tracing the genealogical line of ideas and the Christian responses to them right up to the present day For most theology students learning abstract philosophical concepts involves literally learning a new language a language that the initiated converse in with ease but which leaves the uninitiated baffled Thus each chapter in this study guide opens with a glossary of terms Throughout the studyguide students are encouraged to reflect on the ways in which what has been learned might be applied in both explicitly theological and wider cultural contexts for example they might be asked to think of a film or book that seems to express elements of existentialism or postmodernism or to describe how something very like the extreme subjectivity of idealism can sometimes shows itself in Sunday morning worship
