Levander, Robert S. Levine, 2007-10-04 This landmark collection brings together a range of exciting new comparative work in the burgeoning field of hemispheric studies Scholars working in the fields of Latin American studies

Asian American studies American studies American literature African Diaspora studies and comparative literature address the urgent question of how scholars might reframe disciplinary boundaries within the broad area of what is generally called American studies The essays take as their starting points such questions as What happens to American literary political historical and cultural studies if we recognize the interdependency of nation state developments throughout all the Americas What happens if we recognize the nation as historically evolving and contingent rather than already formed Finally what happens if the fixed borders of a nation are recognized not only as historically produced political constructs but also as component parts of a deeper more multilayered series of national and indigenous histories With essays that examine stamps cartoons novels film art music travel documents and governmental publications Hemispheric American Studies seeks to excavate the complex cultural history of texts and discourses across the ever changing and stratified geopolitical and cultural fields that collectively comprise the American hemisphere This collection promises to chart new directions in American literary and cultural studies

A Fluid Sense of Self Silvia Schultermandl, Sebnem Toplu, 2010 In this era of increasing global mobility identities are too complex to be captured by concepts that rely on national borders for reference Such identities are not unified or stable but are fluid entities which constantly push at the boundaries of the nation state thereby redefining themselves and the nation state simultaneously Contemporary literature pays specific attention to internal and external notions of belonging Politics of Motion and definitions of self resulting from interpersonal relationships Politics of Longing This collection looks at texts by authors who are British American or Canadian but for whom a self definition according to national parameters is insufficient

Continental Divides Rachel Adams, 2010-06-15 North America is more a political and an economic invention than a place people call home Nonetheless the region shared by the United States and its closest neighbors North America is an intriguing frame for comparative American studies Continental Divides is the first book to study the patterns of contact exchange conflict and disavowal among cultures that span the borders of Canada the United States and Mexico Rachel Adams considers a broad range of literary filmic and visual texts that exemplify cultural traffic across North American borders She investigates how our understanding of key themes genres and periods within US cultural study is deepened and in some cases transformed when Canada and Mexico enter the picture How for example does the work of the iconic American writer Jack Kerouac read differently when his Franco American origins and Mexican travels are taken into account Or how would our conception of American modernism be altered if Mexico were positioned as a center of artistic and political activity In this engaging analysis Adams charts the lengthy and often unrecognized traditions of neighborly exchange both hostile and amicable that have left an imprint on North America's varied cultures

Latin American Identities After 1980 Gordana Yovanovitch, Amy Huras, 2010-04-23 Latin American Identities After 1980 takes an interdisciplinary approach to Latin American social and cultural identities With broad regional coverage and an emphasis on Canadian perspectives it focuses on Latin American contact with other cultures and nations Its sound scholarship combines evidence based case studies with the Latin American tradition of the essay particularly in areas where the discourse of the establishment does not match political social and cultural realities and where it is difficult to uncover the purposely covert. This study of the cultural and social Latin America begins with an interpretation of the new Pax Americana designed in the 1980s by the North in agreement with the Southern elites. As the agreement ties the hands of national governments and establishes new regional and global strategies a pan Latin American identity is emphasized over individual national identities. The multi faceted impacts and effects of globalization in Bolivia Ecuador Mexico Cuba Brazil Chile Argentina and the Caribbean are examined with an emphasis on social change the transnationalization and commodification of Latin American and Caribbean arts and the adaptation of cultural identities in a globalized context as understood by Latin American authors writing from transnational perspectives.

Selected Essays on Canadian, Australian and New Zealand Literatures Igor Maver, 2014-06-02 These selected essays on Canadian Australian and New Zealand literatures often although not always consider individual texts and literary authors within the post colonial paradigm. They discuss some of the most prominent mostly contemporary literary authors in these genres including for example Margaret Atwood C K Stead Christopher Koch David Malouf Richard Flanagan Andrew Riemer Ouyang Yu A D Hope Teju Cole from the USA and others. Several studies focus on significant issues in recent diasporic and transcultural writing in English including the specific Slovenian literary production while some of the essays examine the literary representations of a country in a particular national collective consciousness.

West/Border/Road Katherine Ann Roberts, 2018-04-18 The North American entertainment industry is rapidly consolidating and new modes of technological delivery challenge Canadian content regulations. An understanding of how Canadian culture negotiates its rapport with American genres has never been more timely. West Border Road offers an interdisciplinary analysis of contemporary Canadian manifestations of three American genres the western the border and the road. It situates close readings of literary film and television narratives from both English Canada and Quebec within a larger context of Canadian generic borrowing and innovation. Katherine Ann Roberts calls upon canonical works in Canadian studies theories of genre and a wide range of scholarship from border studies cultural studies and film studies to examine how genre is appropriated and sometimes reworked and how these cultural narratives engage with discourses of contemporary Canadian nationhood. The author elucidates Guy Vanderhaeghe's rewriting of the codes of the historical western to include the trauma of Aboriginal peoples. Aritha van Herk's playful spoof on American western iconography the politics and perils of the representation of the Canada US border in CBC produced crime television and how the road genre inspires and constrains the Québécois and Canadian road movie. A reminder of the power and limitations of American genres West Border Road provides a nuanced perspective on Canadian engagement with cultural forms that may be imported but never foreign.
