Global Economic and Environmental Aspects of Biofuels David Pimentel, 2012-04-02 Biofuels and food are dependent on the same resources for production land water and energy The conjuncture of food energy and climate crises demands a new direction in how to harness agriculture to the joint tasks of energy saving emissions reduction and food security Global Economic and Environmental Aspects of Biofuels focuses on the all

Food, Energy, and Society David Pimentel Ph.D., Marcia H. Pimentel M.S., 2007-10-04 Since the publication of the first edition of Food Energy and Society the world's natural resources have become even more diminished due to the rapid expansion of the global human population We are faced with dwindling food supplies in certain geographic areas increasing pressure on energy resources and the imminent extinction of many

Changes in the Sheep Industry in the United States National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources, Committee on the Economic Development and Current Status of the Sheep Industry in the United States, 2008-09-26 The U S sheep industry is complex multifaceted and rooted in history and tradition The dominant feature of sheep production in the United States and thus the focus of much producer and policy concern has been the steady decline in sheep and lamb inventories since the mid 1940s Although often described as an industry in decline this report concludes that a better description of the current U S sheep industry is an industry in transition

Emerging Technologies to Benefit Farmers in Sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources, Committee on a Study of Technologies to Benefit Farmers in Africa and South Asia, 2009-02-21 Increased agricultural productivity is a major stepping stone on the path out of poverty in sub Saharan Africa and South Asia but farmers there face tremendous challenges improving production Poor soil inefficient water use and a lack of access to plant breeding resources nutritious animal feed high quality seed and fuel and electricity combined with some of the most extreme environmental conditions on Earth have made yields in crop and animal production far lower in these regions than world averages Emerging Technologies to Benefit Farmers in Sub Saharan Africa and South Asia identifies sixty emerging technologies with the potential to significantly improve agricultural productivity in sub Saharan Africa and South Asia Eighteen technologies are recommended for immediate development or further exploration Scientists from all backgrounds have an opportunity to become involved in bringing these and other technologies to fruition The opportunities suggested in this book offer new approaches that can synergize with each other and with many other activities to transform agriculture in sub Saharan Africa and South Asia Direct and Indirect Human Contributions to Terrestrial Carbon Fluxes National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources, Stephanie Johnson, Rob Coppock, 2004-07-30 Human induced climate change is an important environmental issue worldwide as scientific studies increasingly demonstrate that human activities are changing the Earth's climate Even if dramatic reductions in emissions were made today some human induced changes are likely to persist beyond the 21st century The Kyoto Protocol calls for emissions reporting that separates out management induced changes in greenhouse gases from those changes caused by indirect human effects e g carbon dioxide fertilization nitrogen deposition or precipitation changes natural effects and past practices on forested agricultural lands This book summarizes a September 2003 workshop where leaders from academia government and industry came together to discuss the current state of scientific understanding on quantifying direct human induced change in terrestrial carbon stocks and related changes in greenhouse gas emissions and distinguishing these changes from those caused by indirect and natural effects Assessing the Benefits of Public Research within an Economic Framework: The Case of USDA's Agricultural Research Service, 2010 Routledge International Handbook of Food Studies Ken Albala, 2013-05-07 Over the past decade there has been a remarkable flowering of interest in food and nutrition both within the popular media and in academia Scholars are increasingly using foodways food systems and eating habits as a new unit of analysis within their own disciplines and students are rushing into classes and formal degree programs focused on food Introduced by the editor and including original articles by over thirty leading food scholars from around the world the Routledge International Handbook of Food Studies offers students scholars and all those interested in food related research a one stop easy to use reference guide Each article includes a brief history of food research within a discipline or on a particular topic a discussion of research methodologies and ideological or theoretical positions resources for research including archives grants and fellowship opportunities as well as suggestions for further study Each entry also explains the logistics of succeeding as a student and professional in food studies This clear direct Handbook will appeal to those hoping to start a career in academic food studies as well as those hoping to shift their research to a food related project Strongly interdisciplinary this work will be of interest to students and scholars throughout the social sciences and humanities

Human Ecology Daniel G. Bates, Judith Tucker, 2010-03-29 This book arose from the need to develop accessible research based case study material which addresses contemporary issues and problems in the rapidly evolving field of human ecology Academic political and indeed public interest in the environmental sciences is on the rise This is no doubt spurred by media coverage of climate change and global warming and attendant natural disasters such as unusual drought and flood conditions toxic dust storms pollution of air and water and the like But there is also a growing intellectual awareness of the social causes of anthropogenic environmental impacts political vectors in determining conservation outcomes and the role of local representations of ecological knowledge in resource management and sustainable yield production This is reflected in the rapid increase of ecology courses being taught at leading universities in the fast growing developing countries much as was the case a decade or two ago in Europe and North America The research presented here is all taken from recent issues of Human Ecology An Interdisciplinary Journal Since the journal itself is a leading forum for contemporary research the articles we have selected represent a cross section of work which brings the perspectives of human ecology to bear on current problems being faced around the world The chapters are organized in such a way to facilitate the use of this volume either to teach a course or to introduce an informed reader to the field

Food versus Fuel Frank Rosillo-Calle, Francis Johnson, 2010-11-25 Food versus Fuel presents a high level introduction to the science and economics behind a well worn debate that will debunk myths and provide quality facts and figures for academics and practitioners in development studies environment studies and agricultural studies Compiled by an internationally renowned scientist and authority and to include perspectives from pro and anti biofuels experts and activists from the North and South the aim of this book is to bring a balanced approach to the current debate on the major issues affecting the development of biofuels in a concise and clear manner in order to provide an informed nuanced but accessible introduction grounded in science and economics rather than conjecture and controversy U. S. Public Agricultural Research David Schimmelpfening,2010-02 Over the years proposals have recommended shifting the focus of public ag res from applied to basic research and giving higher priority to peer reviewed competitively funded grants The public ag res system in the U S is a Fed State partnership with most res conducted at State institutions In recent years State funds have declined USDA funds have remained fairly steady but funding from other Fed agencies and the private sector has increased Along with shifts in funding sources the proportion of basic res being undertaken within the public ag research system has declined This report focuses on the way public ag res is funded in the U S and how changes in funding sources over the last 25 years reflect changes in the type of res pursued Cultivating an Ecological Conscience Frederick L.

Kirschenmann,2010-04-14 Theologian academic and third generation organic farmer Frederick L Kirschenmann is a celebrated agricultural thinker In the last thirty years he has tirelessly promoted the principles of sustainability and has become a legend in his own right Cultivating an Ecological Conscience Essays from a Farmer Philosopher documents Kirschenmann s evolution and his lifelong contributions to the new agrarianism in a collection of his greatest writings on farming philosophy and sustainability Working closely with agricultural economist and editor Constance L Falk Kirschenmann recounts his intellectual and spiritual journey In a unique blend of personal history philosophical discourse spiritual ruminations and practical advice Kirschenmann interweaves his insights with discussion of contemporary agrarian topics This collection serves as an invaluable resource to agrarian scholars and introduces readers to an agricultural pioneer whose work has profoundly influenced modern thinking about food Animal Care and Management at the National Zoo National Research Council,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Institute for Laboratory Animal Research,Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources,Committee on a Review of the Smithsonian Institution's National Zoological Park,2004-03-24 This interim report assesses issues related to animal management husbandry health and care at the Smithsonian Institution s National Zoological Park The report finds that there are shortcomings in care and management that are threatening the well being of the animal collection and identifies the most pressing issues that should be addressed Poultry Behaviour and Welfare Michael C. Appleby,Joy A. Mench,Barry O. Hughes,2004 This authoritative textbook provides an introduction and guide to poultry behavior and welfare It describes the origin and biology of the various species of bird that are of agricultural importance as well as giving a succinct overview of their key behavior patterns There is careful discussion of the many factors that influence their welfare and detailed consideration of the ways in which legislation and commercial interests interact in an attempt to satisfy the many needs involved The final chapters discuss possible future developments within the subject The book is in part an update of a previous work Poultry Production Systems Behaviour Management and Welfare
