Dakin, Mark Mottershaw, Elena Kourteli, 2017-07-06 Respiratory problems are the most common cause of acute admission to hospital. A variety of diagnostic investigations are required both for acute and clinic assessment. Making Sense of Lung Function Tests Second Edition familiarises both trainees and more experienced clinicians with the interpretation of a range of respiratory parameters. It places lung function in a clinical context using real life examples and provides invaluable hands on guidance. For this second edition Consultant Respiratory Physician Jonathan Dakin and Consultant Anaesthetist Elena Kourteli are joined by Mark Mottershaw Chief Respiratory Physiologist from Queen Alexandra Hospital Portsmouth all contributing a broad range of expertise and perspectives. Together they have updated the book throughout and added new chapters including an algorithm for interpretation of pulmonary function tests, exhaled nitric oxide (FENO) and cardiopulmonary exercise testing. The text offers a clear explanation of the concepts which students find difficult including the basis of obstructive and restrictive defects, pattern recognition of the flow volume loop, differences between TLC<sub>O</sub> and KCO, assessment of oxygenation using PO<sub>2</sub> and SO<sub>2</sub>, the basis of Type 1 and type 2 respiratory failure, distinguishing respiratory and metabolic acidosis, the relationship between sleep and respiratory failure. The information is presented in an accessible way suitable for those seeking a basic grounding in spirometry or blood gases but also sufficiently comprehensive for readers completing specialist training in general or respiratory medicine. Improving Exercise Testing Methods and Interpretation in Human Health and Diseases Mathieu Gruet, Leonardo Alexandre Peyré-Tartaruga, Martin Behrens, 2023-11-28 Exercise testing is a versatile tool for health purposes When used in combination with specific devices and sensors it can provide valuable diagnostic and prognostic information in a wide range of populations Exercise testing outcomes are also useful for training prescriptions and defining responses to clinical trials evaluating interventions Whole body maximal tests e g cardiopulmonary exercise testing field tests e g walking tests and modalities isolating a muscle group e g isokinetic endurance testing all have their advantages and limits and should be viewed as complementary Recent advances in wearable technology and artificial intelligence provide unique opportunities to broaden the application of these tests and facilitate their interpretation In the meantime the clinimetric properties of some widely used exercise tests are still poorly documented in several clinical populations which hampers optimal diagnosis and management Moreover most exercise tests used in clinical practice are suffering from a lack of ecological validity and there is a need to develop and valid new testing modalities that best mimic daily life functioning This Research Topic aims to extend our knowledge regarding the validity and clinical utility of various exercise testing modalities and facilitate their interpretation This topic supports a multimodal approach to exercise testing and welcomes reports investigating either whole body or local muscle testing Submission of research combining different exercise modalities and investigating their potential links are particularly encouraged Inter disciplinary research with studies integrating concepts tools and data from various disciplines like exercise physiology biomechanics and psychology are of particular interest for this Research Topic This topic is not restricted in terms of age medical conditions or type of disease but manuscripts must have clear implications for human health
