strong narrative with a timely message the book explores how Rocketship started and the difficulties encountered as it expands Designing schools for children who have been failed by traditional schools is extremely challenging work Setbacks are inevitable Later in the book the narrative shifts to the national picture exploring how high performing charter schools are changing the education landscape in cities such as Denver Memphis and Houston The book emerges just as charter schools are running into stiff political opposition in New York City and elsewhere Even in San Jose Rocketship's home base the pushback against charter schools is gaining speed On the Rocketship becomes a valuable resource for explaining what's at stake in this battle Lose these schools in New York San Jose and other cities and low income and minority students lose their best shot at a quality education Written by a veteran journalist who followed Rocketship through a school year the book explores some of the factors that make Rocketship and other charters successful including the blended learning that was pioneered at charter schools especially Rocketship Many schools around the country are looking to Rocketship as a model for implementing blended learning The interplay between charter schools and blended learning is setting a change in motion and the American education system is ready to evolve On the Rocketship details this phenomenon providing insights for educators across the nation

The Opportunity Equation Eric Schwarz, 2015-08-25 Schwarz founder of the groundbreaking Citizen Schools program shares his vision for reducing inequality by pairing successful adults with low income students Parental wealth now predicts adult success more than at any point in the last hundred years And yet as debates about education rage on and wealth based achievement gaps grow too many people fix the blame on one of two convenient scapegoats poverty or our public schools But in fact low income kids are learning more now than ever before The real culprit for rising inequality Eric Schwarz argues in The Opportunity Equation is that wealthier kids are learning much much more mostly outside of school In summer camps robotics competitions sessions with private tutors and conversations around the dinner table children from more affluent families build the skills and social networks that propel them to success In The Opportunity Equation Schwarz tells the story of how he founded the pioneering Citizen Schools program to combat rising inequality by bringing these same opportunities to children who don't have access to them By increasing learning time in schools and harnessing the power of an army of volunteers with various skills and professional backgrounds lawyers engineers carpenters journalists nonprofit leaders and grandmothers who sew Citizen Schools offers after school apprenticeships that provide the building blocks for adult success Recounting the triumphs and setbacks he's encountered in implementing the program Schwarz shows that some of the nation's lowest performing schools in its lowest income cities can with help provide their students with many of the same experiences wealthy communities afford to their children The results have been proven in the dozen school districts from New York to Oakland that have partnered with Citizen Schools rates of attendance proficiency graduation and college acceptance have gone up and the achievement gap closes At a time when many stakeholders in the education debates are looking for new silver bullet shortcuts to educational excellence Schwarz shows that the best solution is human centered rooted in the American tradition of citizen voluntarism and most important achievable We can provide quality education for all students and close the opportunity gap in this country and we can do it together A Focus on Ratios and Proportions Marjorie M.
