Expanding Peace Journalism Comparative And Critical Approaches:

Expanding Peace Journalism Ibrahim Seaga Shaw, Jake Lynch, Robert A. Hackett, 2018-08-30 This major new text explores and interrogates peace journalism as a significant challenge to this hegemonic discourse which has been advocated and elaborated over the recent years in journalism media development and academic spheres

Media and Peace in the Middle East Giuliana Tiripelli, 2016-04-29 In exploring the dynamics and narratives of peace in journalism this book explains the media's impact on the transformation of the conflict between Israelis and Palestinians It discusses the perspectives of peace activists who have been involved in grassroots action since the first Intifada and examines how their relation with the mainstream media has evolved over time It compares these views with those of professional journalists who have been covering the conflict and their sense of the difficulties inherent in practicing a different kind of journalism The interviews included in this study contribute towards the model of Peace Journalism with a view to facilitating its successful application to this conflict Highlighting both the obstacles and opportunities associated with this endeavour Tiripelli offers suggestions for the strategic application of this model

Peace Photography Frank Möller, 2018-12-17 This study thinks with photography about peace It asks how photography can represent peace and how such representation can contribute to peace The book offers an original critique of the almost exclusive focus on violence in recent work on visual culture and presents a completely new research agenda within the overall framework of visual peace research Critically engaging with both photojournalism and art photography in light of peace theories it looks for visual representations or anticipations of peace peace or peace as a potentiality in the work of selected photographers including Robert Capa and Richard Mosse thus reinterpreting photography from the Spanish Civil War to current anti migration politics in Europe The book argues that peace photography is episodic culturally specific process oriented and considerate of both the past and the future

A Global Standard for Reporting Conflict Jake Lynch, 2013-09-05 A Global Standard for Reporting Conflict constructs an argument from first principles to identify what constitutes good journalism It explores and synthesises key concepts from political and communication theory to delineate the role of journalism in public spheres And it shows how these concepts relate to ideas from peace research in the form of Peace Journalism Thinkers whose contributions are examined along the way include Michel Foucault Johan Galtung John Paul Lederach Edward Herman and Noam Chomsky Manuel Castells and Jurgen Habermas The book argues for a critical realist approach considering critiques of correspondence theories of representation to propose an innovative conceptualisation of journalistic epistemology in which social truths can be identified as the basis for the journalistic remit of factual reporting If the world cannot be accessed as it is then it can be assembled as agreed so long as consensus on important meanings is kept under constant review These propositions are tested by extensive fieldwork in four countries Australia the Philippines South Africa and Mexico

Responsible Journalism in Conflicted Societies Jake Lynch, Charis Rice, 2022-09-30 Setting out multiple perspectives from media and journalism scholars this collection addresses the implications that today's technological socio-political and economic conditions have for relations between journalists, sources, audiences and wider publics. Applying an inclusive concept of conflicted societies that goes beyond those affected by violent conflict to include traditionally stable but increasingly polarised democracies such as the UK and the USA, contributors engage with longstanding questions and new challenges surrounding concepts of responsibility, trust, public service and public interest in journalism. The unique span of studies offers international scope including societies often overlooked in media and journalism studies such as Northern Ireland, Turkey, Cyprus, Pakistan, The Democratic Republic of Congo and the Central African Republic. Chapters also feature contemporary case studies such as the COVID-19 pandemic as a route into understanding the pertinent issue of fake news and the local turn in journalism. Responsible Journalism in Conflicted Societies is not only a valuable resource for those studying conflict reporting and international journalism but will also appeal to scholars working at the intersection of media, journalism, communication, peace, conflict and security studies.

Reporting Immigration Conflict Mariely Valentin-Llopis, 2021-08-26 In Reporting Immigration Conflict: Opportunities for Peace Journalism Mariely Valentin Llopis examines the role of American and Mexican media in promoting harsh views against Central American migrants. This examination focuses on the U.S. southwestern border crossing conflict in 2014 and 2019, both separate consequential periods in time. Valentin Llopis contextualizes migrants' plight with careful consideration to unaccompanied minor migrants and the family separation crisis. As a counterpoint, the author also takes the news content analysis through a historical journey to when news reporters seemingly bent traditional journalism principles to protect Cuban children, refugees fleeing the Castro regime and communism, showing that it is possible to provide fair depictions of migrants and their struggles. Valentin Llopis challenges journalism's traditional approach to news production by introducing the peace journalism rubric to immigration reporting. Scholars of international relations, journalism history and minority studies will find this book particularly useful, while media practitioners in the field can also find practical approaches to transforming their work for the benefit of peace solutions to pressing transnational conflicts. Communication and

Peace Julia Hoffmann, Virgil Hawkins, 2015-02-11 This book analyses the use of communication in resolving conflicts with a focus on de-escalation and processes of peacebuilding and peace formation. From the employment of hate radio in the Rwanda genocide to the current conflict between Russia and the Ukraine, following events in the Crimea, communication and the media are widely recognized as powerful tools in conflicts and war. Although there has been significant academic attention on the relationship between the media, conflict and war, academic efforts to understand this relationship have tended to focus primarily on the links between communication and conflict rather than on communication and peace. In order to make sense of peace, it is essential to look at communication in its many facets, mediated or not. This is true within many of the diverse strands that make up the field of communication and peace, but it is also true in the sense that a holistic and interdisciplinary approach is missing from the literature. This book addresses this widely acknowledged lacuna by providing an interdisciplinary perspective on the field bringing together relevant but so far largely isolated streams of research In doing so it aims to provide a platform for further reflection of the meaning of and requirements for peace in our contemporary world with a focus on de escalation conflict transformation reconciliation and processes of peacebuilding as opposed to conflict escalation or crisis intervention This volume will be of much interest to students of peace and conflict studies peacebuilding media and communication studies security studies and IR in general
