Microcomputer Software for Civil Engineers Howard Falk, 2012-12-06 This is a book about software packages for use by civil engineers It is written for engineers who need software that can do the job without requiring that they become computer experts or programmers The purpose of this book is to present a broad picture of the personal computer packages now available for use by civil engineers Each chapter is devoted to an area such as structures surveying hydrology drafting or equation solving in which a number of software packages are presently offered for use with personal computers The chapter introductions explain what kinds of design or analysis or other tasks these packages perform outlining the available choices and comparing the capabilities of the various packages Detailed reviews of individual packages follow The emphasis here is on what the user must know and do to employ the capabilities of the package Going beyond general description these reviews also explain what the packages actually will and will not do Although many packages are covered there is no attempt here at completeness In every category covered in the book many more packages exist than those that have been reviewed In the fast moving field of engineering software many new packages are currently being written and marketed

Expert Systems for Civil Engineers Iris D. Tommelein, 1997-01-01 This monograph on integrated computer systems is one in a series of monographs published by the Expert Systems on Artificial Intelligence Committee of the ASCE Technical Council on

Computer Practices The purpose of the monograph series is to address issues in the use of expert system technology in civil engineering problem solving Many of the publications and tools available to implement expert systems are generalized environments The application of these environments is best achieved with an understanding of how others have succeeded or failed in using them to solve problems in the civil engineering domain EM Expert Systems for Civil Engineers Integration Issues broadens the scope of the monograph series from a focus on expert systems to a more general use of Artificial Intelligence AI techniques The scope is also broadened by considering integration of computer programs more generally rather than only on combining expert systems with other packages The reason for expanding the scope of the series is to consider the role of AI in civil engineering computer environments rather than being limited to the implementation of expert systems This follows a general trend in research and practice to find the right tool for the problem being addressed rather than to a priori assume an expert system approach This report specifically describes the technical and pragmatic issues in developing integrated or distributed computer systems in which AI techniques are used and how these issues were resolved in civil engineering research and practice
