Multi-Level Reconciliation and Peacebuilding Kevin P. Clements, SungYong Lee, 2020-12-06 This edited volume examines the group dynamics of social reconciliation in conflict affected societies by adopting ideas developed in social psychology and the everyday peace discourse in peace and conflict studies. The book revisits the intra and inter group dynamics of social reconciliation in conflict affected societies which have been largely marginalised in mainstream peacebuilding debates. By applying social psychological perspectives and the discourse of everyday peace, the chapters explore the everyday experience of community actors engaged in social and political reconciliation. The first part of the volume introduces conceptual and theoretical studies that focus on the pros and cons of state level reconciliation and their outcomes while presenting theoretical insights into dialogical processes upon which reconciliation studies can develop further. The second part presents a series of empirical case studies from around the world which examine the process of social reconciliation at community levels through the lens of social psychology and discourse analysis. This book will be of much interest to students of peacebuilding, conflict resolution, social psychology, discourse analysis, and international relations in general.

Locally Led Peacebuilding Stacey L. Connaughton, Jessica Berns, 2019-09-09 The authors of this edited volume present a case for why locally led peacebuilding matters and how it can have measurable and meaningful impact even beyond preventing political violence. This book contributes a set of local voices to a global problem: how to prevent armed conflict and lead to lasting peace. The authors argue that locally led peacebuilding by community based organizations, both formal and informal, plays a crucial role in preventing violence and cultivating peace, one that is complementary to peacebuilding work done by local state and national governments within countries and between nation states. Through the case studies presented, Locally Led Peacebuilding presents evidence for how and why locally led peacebuilding can prevent violence and invites practitioners and scholars to critically examine the implications of locally led initiatives From these examples we all have an opportunity to learn about creating implementing researching and funding locally led peacebuilding

Contemporary Peacemaking Roger Mac Ginty,Anthony Wanis-St. John,2022-01-12 This fully updated third edition of Contemporary Peacemaking is a state of the art overview of peacemaking in relation to contemporary civil wars It examines best and worst practice in relation to peace processes and peace accords The contributing authors are a mix of leading academics and practitioners with expert knowledge of a wide arrays of cases and techniques The book provides a mix of theory and concept building along with insights into ongoing cases of peace processes and post accord peacebuilding The chapters make clear that peacemaking is a dynamic field with new practices in peacemaking techniques changes to the international peace support architecture and greater awareness of key issues such as gender and development after peace accords The book is mindful of the intersection between top down and bottom up approaches to peace and how formal and institutionalized peace accords need to be lived and enacted by communities on the ground Multidimensional

Peacebuilding Wendy Kroeker,2021-01-15 Attentive to intersecting issues of colonialism political marginalization and ethnic diversity this book examines the crucial role that local actors play in working towards sustainable peace in Mindanao Philippines Interviewees include both those involved in the formal peace process between the Bangsamoro people and the government of the Philippines as well as those who have worked more broadly in building a local culture of peace through activities such as education dialogues awareness building or social reconciliation This book provides provocative insights for multidimensional peacebuilding strategies in conflict impacted communities regions and nations Listening, Community Engagement, and Peacebuilding Graham D. Bodie,Debra L. Worthington,Zenebe Beyene,2023-06-01 This book explores the role of listening in community engagement and peacebuilding efforts bridging academic research in communication and practical applications for individual and social change For all their differences community engagement and peacebuilding efforts share much in common the need to establish and agree on achievable and measurable goals the importance of trust and the need for conflict management to name but a few This book presents listening considered as a multi disciplinary concept related to but distinct from civility civic participation and other social processes as a primary mechanism for accomplishing these tasks Individual chapters explore these themes in an array of international contexts examining topics such as conflict resolution restorative justice environmental justice migrants and refugees and trauma informed peacebuilding The book includes contemporary literature reviews and theoretical insights covering the role of listening as related to individual social and governmental efforts to better engage communities and build maintain or establish peace in an increasingly divided world This collection provides invaluable insight to researchers students educators and practitioners in intercultural and international communication conflict management peacebuilding community engagement and international studies Chapter 10 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www>

Civil Society, Peace, and Power David Cortright, Melanie Greenberg, Laurel Stone, 2016-10-12 Civil society plays an increasingly powerful role in the global landscape emerging as key actors in preventing and managing conflict and building more peaceful and sustainable societies. The multiple case studies featured in this volume illustrate the growth of civil society involvement in national, regional, and international peacebuilding policy. The focus is on multi-stakeholder systems-based approaches to peacebuilding and human security that involve diverse civil society groups, NGOs, religious organizations, media, etc., government agencies, intergovernmental organizations, and security forces. This unique comprehensive approach encompasses diverse stakeholders seeking to understand the drivers of conflict and the possibilities for working together to build peace. The book illustrates how the involvement of civil society can result in better informed, more inclusive, more accountable government decision making and more effective peacebuilding policies. Importantly, a number of the case studies provide a gender perspective on peacebuilding and civil society issues, voicing and giving attention to women's perspectives without being focused only on gender issues. Further, authors from the Global South offer the perspectives of those directly immersed in ongoing struggles for justice and peace.

Healing and Peacebuilding after War Julianne Funk, Nancy Good, Marie E. Berry, 2020-05-27 This book brings together multiple perspectives to examine the strengths and limitations of efforts to promote healing and peacebuilding after war, focusing on the aftermath of the traumatic armed conflict in Bosnia and Herzegovina. This book begins with a simple premise: trauma that is not transformed is transferred. Drawing on multidisciplinary insights from academics, peace practitioners, and trauma experts, this book examines the limitations of our current strategies for promoting healing and peacebuilding after war while offering insights into best practices to prevent future violence through psychosocial trauma recovery and the healing of memories. The contributions create a conversation that allows readers to critically rethink the deeper roots and mechanisms of trauma created by the war. Collectively, the authors provide strategic recommendations to policymakers, peace practitioners, donors, and international organizations engaged in work in Bosnia and Herzegovina, strategies that can be applied to other countries rebuilding after war. This volume will be of much interest to students of conflict resolution, peacebuilding, social psychology, Balkan politics, and International Relations in general.

The Politics of Peacebuilding in Africa Thomas Kwasi Tieku, Amanda Coffie, Mary Boatemaa Setrana, Akin Taiwo, 2021-11-29 This interdisciplinary book brings together innovative chapters that address the entire spectrum of the African peacebuilding landscape and showcases findings from original studies on peacebuilding. With a range of perspectives, the chapters cover the full gamut of peacebuilding, i.e., the continuum between conflict prevention and post-war reconstruction, and address both micro and macro peacebuilding issues in the five regions of Africa. Moving beyond the tendency to focus on a single case study or a few case studies in peacebuilding scholarship, the chapters examine critical peacebuilding issues at the local, state, regional, extra-regional, and continental levels in Africa. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of African politics peace and security studies regional organizations development studies state building and more broadly to international relations public policy diplomacy international organizations and the wider social sciences
