Confronting Twenty-first Century Challenges Ruth Mukama, Murindwa Rutanga, 2005

Confronting the Challenges of Participatory Culture Henry Jenkins, 2009-06-05 Many teens today who use the Internet are actively involved in participatory cultures joining online communities Facebook message boards game clans producing creative work in new forms digital sampling modding fan videomaking fan fiction working in teams to complete tasks and develop new knowledge as in Wikipedia and shaping the flow of media as in blogging or podcasting A growing body of scholarship suggests potential benefits of these activities including opportunities for peer to peer learning development of skills useful in the modern workplace and a more empowered conception of citizenship Some argue that young people pick up these key skills and competencies on their own by interacting with popular culture but the problems of unequal access lack of media transparency and the breakdown of traditional forms of socialization and professional training suggest a role for policy and pedagogical intervention This report aims to shift the conversation about the digital divide from questions about access to technology to questions about access to opportunities for involvement in participatory culture and how to provide all young people with the chance to develop the cultural competencies and social skills needed Fostering these skills the authors argue requires a systemic approach to media education schools afterschool programs and parents all have distinctive roles to play The John D and Catherine T MacArthur Foundation Reports on Digital Media and Learning

Imagining the United States of Africa E. Ike Udogu, 2015-02-10 This book frames the debates around the pressing desire for some form of unification that found expression in the pan Africanist movement and formation of the Organization of African Unity in Addis Ababa Ethiopia in 1963 following the advent of home rule for many former colonies of the Western powers Discussions in this volume address the following fundamental issues nationalism and political integration and how the contradictions between both philosophies can be resolved the amelioration of corruption in order to attract internal and external investments critical for developing the vast natural resources housed in the continent the need for Africa's adaptation to the ideology and practice of capitalism and liberal globalization to suit the character of African states in a projected federal United States of Africa solutions to ethnic conflicts that are bound to happen over clashes of competing group interests the indispensability and promotion of information communication technologies and urgent need to strengthen a network of regional electric power grids that would provide constant energy to the Union and lead to improvement in communication and economic growth and recommendation of social democracy as the genre of democracy suitable for a proposed United States of Africa

Completely updated and revised, the fifth edition includes fourteen new chapters and covers the politics of the social studies curriculum, questions of historical perspective, Black education and critical race theory, whiteness and anti-racism, decolonial literacy and decolonizing the curriculum, gender and sexuality, Islamophobia, critical media literacy, evil in social studies, economics education, anarchism, children's rights, and Earth democracy and citizenship education. Readers are encouraged to reconsider their assumptions and understandings of the purposes, nature, and possibilities of the social studies curriculum.

Screen Freedoms:

Defending Digital Rights in the 21st Century Robert Front, 2025-06-13 In an era where digital landscapes shape our lives, Screen Freedoms delves into the urgent and complex fight for internet freedom and privacy in the digital age. This compelling narrative unveils the pervasive issues of online censorship in authoritarian regimes, the implications of surveillance capitalism, and the critical state of data privacy amidst the rise of social media. Drawing from the alarming findings of Freedom House's 2024 report, which reveals that a significant number of internet users face arrest for nonviolent expression, the book highlights the increasingly authoritarian use of censorship to manipulate democracy, especially during election periods. Screen Freedoms intricately weaves technical insights, such as the mechanics of VPNs and encryption, along with AI-driven content filtering, with the human stories of activists and everyday individuals courageously standing against oppression. Through the experiences of cyber dissidents, whistleblowers, and creative programmers, readers are taken on a global journey of resistance, spotlighting efforts like protestors utilizing encrypted messaging and journalists skillfully evading censorship. Addressing timely issues such as social media's influence, AI regulation, and our fundamental rights in cyberspace, this book captures the emotional weight of injustice and triumph, offering educational insights into privacy tools and online speech responsibilities. Screen Freedoms stands as a vital resource that not only informs but also galvanizes readers to understand and advocate for their digital rights.

Confronting the Challenges of Participatory Culture H. Jenkins, 2006 Museums and the Challenge of Change Graham Black, 2020-12-29 Museums and the Challenge of Change explores the profound challenges facing museums and charts ways forward that are grounded in partnership with audiences and communities on-site, online, and in wider society. Facing new generations with growing needs and desires, growing population diversity, and a digital revolution, the museum sector knows it must change, but it has been slow to respond. Drawing on the expertise and voices of practitioners from within and beyond the sector, Black calls for a change of mind set and radical evolution. Transformation over time, learning from the process rather than a big bang approach. Internally, a participative environment supports social interaction through active engagement with collections and content, and Black includes an initial typology of participative exhibits both traditional and digital Externally the museum works in partnership with local communities and other agencies to make a real difference in response to societal challenges Black considers what this means for the management and structure of the museum emphasising that it is not possible to separate the development of a participative experience from the ways in which the museum is organised Museums and the Challenge of Change is highly practical and focused on initiatives that museums can implement swiftly and cheaply making a real impact on user engagement The book will thus be essential reading for museum practitioners and students of museum studies around the globe Find a Way Or Make One Alma J. Carten, 2021 Clark Atlanta University Whitney M Young Jr School of Social Work was founded in 1920 in Atlanta Georgia as the Atlanta School of Social Work to prepare social workers for practice in underserved black neighborhoods Spearheaded by black scholars and progressive whites during an era of racial segregation 2020 marks its centennial as the first accredited social work program at a historically black college and university In this book social work professor Alma J Carten describes the School s transitions from its beginnings amid the pervasive racism sanctioned by Supreme Court rulings in the Dred Scott and Plessy v Ferguson cases through the decades of 20th century progressive civil rights reforms and into the new conservatism of the 21st century Referencing archival documents Carten illustrates the School s commitment to the democratic principles of the profession despite the blatant racism of the segregated South and the less visible structural inequalities following desegregation from which mainstream social work education was not immune The book describes the influence of iconic thought leaders on the School s culture and academic programs beginning with Jesse O Thomas s speech on the need for a black school of social work given from the segregated section of the 1920 National Conference on Social Work and including W E B DuBois Atlanta University Studies that pioneered the model of social progress powered by science E Franklin Frazier and Forrester B Washington who championed black social work and the integration of race critical content in the curriculum of all schools and Whitney M Young Jr who chastised social workers for their waning interest in advocacy for marginalized populations and encouraged them to become politically active Carten examines the evolution of the School within the context of changes in US social welfare policy CSWE accrediting standards and NASW Code of Ethics Highly readable the book brings to light the under reported contributions of HBCU social work programs to social work education and it thoughtfully engages with the School s efforts to legitimize the Afrocentric perspective and the humanistic values embraced by HBCU social work programs Television Dramas and the Global Village Carolyn A. Lin, Diana I. Ríos, 2021-10-18 This book discusses the role of television drama series on a global scale analyzing these dramas across the Americas Europe Asia Australia and Africa Contributors consider the role of television dramas as economically valuable cultural products and with their depictions of gender roles sexualities race cultural values political systems and religious beliefs as they analyze how these programs allow us to indulge our innate desire to share human narratives in a way that binds us together and encourages audiences to persevere as a community on a global scale

Contributors also go on to explore the role of television dramas as a medium that indulges fantasies and escapism and reckons with reality as it allows audiences to experience emotions of happiness sorrow fear and outrage in both realistic and fantastical scenarios      Communicating Specialized Knowledge Marina Bondi, Silvia Cacchiani, Silvia Cavalieri, 2019-06-13

This book was born out of the idea that domain specific knowledge has two major dimensions since on the one hand peer to peer communication is primarily intended to further research within specific disciplines while on the other domain external asymmetric communication of filtered knowledge caters to different types of lay audiences Collectively the chapters in the volume take the reader on a journey through knowledge communication and knowledge re presentation strategies that are able to successfully disseminate and communicate The domains under scrutiny are medicine and health corporate communication cultural heritage and tourism A number of issues are addressed at the interface of corpus linguistics genre studies and multimodal analysis The variety of questions posed and methods used to explore corpus data will contribute to further debate among scholars in applied linguistics sociolinguistics multimodality media studies and computer mediated communication
