Bad Education: Debunking Myths in Education Philip Adey, Justin Dillon, 2012-10-16 This is an important and welcome book Readers can see the faults of simplistic judgments neglect of evidence dismissal of researchers and injudicious implementation From the foreword by Paul Black We all know that small classes are better than large classes that children are best taught in groups according to their ability that some schools are much better than others and that we should teach children according to their individual learning styles or do we This book asks awkward questions about these and many other sacred cows of education Each chapter tackles a persistent myth in education confronting it with research evidence and teasing out any kernel of truth which may underlie the myth Leading authors from the world of education each bring analysis and expertise to bear on their chosen subject presenting their argument in an accessible manner based on sound scholarship Some of the conclusions drawn in Bad Education are likely to be real eye openers for many teachers and parents who will find some of their basic assumptions about education called into question It is also essential reading for anyone involved in educational policy making or management Contributors Philip Adey Mike Anderson Ed Baines Paul Black Peter Blatchford Margaret Brown Guy Claxton Frank Coffield Justin Dillon Julian Joe Elliott Simon Gibbs Jeremy Hodgen Neil Humphrey Annette Karmiloff Smith Bill Lucas Bethan Marshall Brian Matthews Corinne Reid Rob Webster Dylan Wiliam As education policymakers it can be difficult to resist the comfort of our own experience and gut instincts or the lure of populism Bad Education is an invaluable myth buster that tears down common misconceptions and serves up hard facts in their place This is a politically unpalatable guide to the evidence that will challenge policymakers the press and parents alike Dale Bassett Head of Public Policy AQA This book should become a manifesto for change for all of those in education who want to ensure our children do not receive a Bad Education Every Headteacher should buy a copy for every teacher and hopefully somebody might even place a copy under the Secretary of State s Xmas tree Gary Phillips Head Teacher Lilian Bayliss School This is a welcome and important book It takes apart the myths which support the dearly held convictions simplistic assumptions prejudices and irrational certainties of both politicians and teachers Admitting that education is not itself a science but demonstrating how both neuroscience and psychology have become available to inform educational policy and practice it should provide food for more careful and well informed thought to all who can influence what happens in our schools Baroness Perry of Southwark     The Elusive

Sentence Rita Eulalie Hatfield,Leta Marie Young,2015-12-08 Across our nation many within our educational system complain that America s children cannot write well Hatfield and Young assert that the problem lies at the foundation of our pedagogy for writing that most elementary writing curricula lack rudimentary instruction at the sentence level The authors introduce a sentence level writing intervention that explicitly defines the elements found in great sentences This intervention forms the foundational framework for writing skills acquisition helping teachers students and writers of all ages to understand how to craft well written sentences and paragraphs Research supports that the most effective instruction is skills based and multisensory therefore Hatfield and Young also introduce a cognitively differentiated writing model which uses arts integrated instruction to enhance learning and memory for other content areas This writing model is based on best practice and this sentence level intervention serves as a precursor for mastering the new writing standards for CCSS It offers novice writers a precise blueprint for what successful writing looks like and clearly defines the elusive sentence     Service Learning in Higher Education Elaine Clanton Harpine,2024-02-27 This practical guide assists university faculty in developing and implementing service learning courses and projects across multiple disciplines It examines how embedding academic service learning projects into the core curricula benefits not only the students but also their universities and communities The book describes ways in which service learning becomes a powerful teaching method using step by step explanations real world examples and instructor checklists and handouts Chapters detail how to integrate academic service learning projects into classroom pedagogy and evaluate student experience Key areas of coverage include Strategies for ensuring that students engage with academic service learning projects from the initial stages through completion Guidance on embedding an academic service learning curriculum into traditional coursework to supplement students textbook knowledge and classroom experiences to address real world problems in the community Research confirming the ways in which students learn more and score higher on end of the semester tests when courses incorporate academic service learning projects Steps to incorporate service learning projects across various disciplines and coursework to enrich student learning and produce positive outcomes for universities and communities Service Learning in Higher Education is an essential resource for professors and graduate students as well as teachers and educational professionals in such varied fields as school and clinical child psychology educational psychology social work pedagogy educational practice and policy sociology anthropology and all related disciplines
