Remaking Social Work with Children and Families Paul Michael Garrett,2004-06-01 Remaking Social Work with Children and Families provides a sustained examination of the modernisation of this area of social care It analyses some of the key themes introduced by the administrations of John Major and Tony Blair and provides a critical exploration of contemporary policy initiatives and issues These include the Looking After Children LAC materials The Framework for the Assessment of Children in Need and Their Families working together to protect children the mainstream approach to race and ethnicity in social work the implications for social work of the emergence of personal advisers mentors and related professionals The author argues that political and ideological factors need to be taken into account in order to understand the dominant discourses and evolving practices of social work with children Potential fixation with ensuring that young people are able to fit into their allotted roles in a market economy and an overarching concern about children and criminality have been crucial in this respect He concludes that while social workers and educators should be prepared to embrace change they need to be critical agents in the process of change recognising the ever present need to promote and foster democracy within the sphere of social welfare This timely book will be helpful to all students educators and social care professionals who are seeking to develop their theoretical and practical understanding of a changing profession
