Visioning Technologies Graham Cairns, 2016-12-08 Visioning Technologies brings together a collection of texts from leading theorists to examine how architecture has been and is reframed and restructured by the visual and theoretical frameworks introduced by different technologies of sight understood to include orthographic projection perspective drawing telescopic devices photography film and computer visualization amongst others Each chapter deals with its own area and historical period of expertise organized sequentially to mark out and analyse the historical evolution of how architecture has been transformed by technologically induced shifts in human perception from the 15th century until today This book underlines the way in which architectural forms and design processes have developed historically in conjunction with the systems of sight we manufacture technologically and suggests this continues today Paradoxically it is premised on the argument that these technological systems tend in their initial formulations to obtain ever greater realism in our visualizations of the physical world

Riverine Gerald Adler,Manolo Guerci,2018-10-29 Riverscapes are the main arteries of the world s largest cities and have for millennia been the lifeblood of the urban communities that have developed around them These human settlements given life through the space of the local waterscape soon developed into ritualised spaces that sought to harness the dynamism of the watercourse and create the local architectural landscape Theorised via a sophisticated understanding of history space culture and ecology this collection of wonderful and deliberately wide ranging case studies from Early Modern Italy to the contemporary Bengal Delta investigates the culture of human interaction with rivers and the nature of urban topography Riverine explores the ways in which architecture and urban planning have imbued cultural landscapes with ritual and structural meaning Beyond the Architect's Eye Mary N. Woods,2013-12-11 Typical architectural photography freezes buildings in an ideal moment and rarely captures what photographer Berenice Abbott called the medium s power to depict

how the past jostled the present In Beyond the Architect's Eye Mary N Woods expands on this range of images through a rich analysis that commingles art amateur and documentary photography genres usually not considered architectural but that often take the built environment as their subject Woods explores how photographers used their built environment to capture the disparate American landscapes prior to World War II when urban and rural areas grew further apart in the face of skyscrapers massive industrialization and profound cultural shifts Central to this study is the work of Alfred Stieglitz Frances Benjamin Johnston and Marion Post Wolcott but Woods weaves a wider narrative that also includes Alice Austen Gertrude Kasebier Berenice Abbott Margaret Bourke White Helen Levitt Lisette Model Louise Dahl Wolfe Morgan and Marvin Smith Eudora Welty Samuel Gottscho Walker Evans Max Waldman and others In such disparate places as New York City the rural South and the burgeoning metropolis of Miami these unconventional architectural photographers observed buildings as deeply connected to their context Whereas Stieglitz captured New York as the quintessential modern urban landscape in the period the South was its opposite a land supposedly frozen in the past Yet just as this myth of the Old South crystallized in photographs like Johnston's a New South shaped by popular culture and modern industry arose Miami embodied both of these visions In Wolcott's work agricultural fields where stoop labor persisted were juxtaposed with Art Deco hotels a popular modernism of the machine age that remade Miami Beach into a miniaturized Manhattan on the beach Beyond the Architect's Eye is a groundbreaking study that melds histories of American art cities and architecture with visual studies of landscape photography and cultural geography

Temples for a Modern God Jay M. Price, 2012-11-02 Temples for a Modern God is one of the first major studies of American religious architecture in the postwar period and it reveals the diverse and complicated set of issues that emerged just as one of the nation's biggest building booms unfolded Jay Price tells the story of how a movement consisting of denominational architectural bureaus freelance consultants architects professional and religious organizations religious building journals professional conferences artistic studios and specialized businesses came to have a profound influence on the nature of sacred space Debates over architectural style coincided with equally significant changes in worship practice Meanwhile suburbanization and the baby boom required a new type of worship facility one that had to attract members and serve a social role as much as honor the Divine Price uses religious architecture to explore how Mainline Protestantism Catholicism Judaism and other traditions moved beyond their ethnic regional and cultural enclaves to create a built environment that was simultaneously intertwined with technology and social change yet rooted in a fluid and shifting sense of tradition Price argues that these structures as often mocked as loved were physical embodiments of a significant if underappreciated era in American religious history

A World History of Art Hugh Honour, John Fleming, 2005 Over two decades this art historical tour de force has consistently proved the classic introduction to humanity's artistic heritage From our paleolithic past to our digitised present every continent and culture is covered in an articulate and well balanced discussion In this Seventh Edition the text has been revised to embrace developments in archaeology and art historical research while the renowned contemporary art historian Michael Archer has greatly expanded the discussion of the past twenty years providing a new perspective on the latest developments The insight elegance and fluency that the authors bring to their text are complemented by 1458 superb illustrations half of which are now in colour These images together with the numerous maps and architectural plans have been chosen to represent the most significant chronological regional and individual styles of artistic expression Building World ,1907 NorCalMod Pierluigi Serraino,2006-08-03 Many people think modernist architecture never flowered in California north of the San Fernando Valley NorCalMod dispels that notion in a copiously illustrated history showcasing extraordinary examples of its proud contribution to the Bay Area and environs As a style modernist architecture was hotly debated in its day why create modern structures where such distinctive Victorian and Arts and Crafts buildings already existed pulling heavyweights such as Frank Lloyd Wright Lewis Mumford and Walter Gropius into the fray Ultimately that existing Bay Region Style would remain the area s architectural hallmark but not before hundreds of important modernist projects many still standing yet unjustly neglected today had been established The remarkable photos in this book open our eyes to a long lost chapter in the history of California architecture and make NorCalMod a volume to be enjoyed by those interested in California history and style as well as by architecture students and professionals
