Yousaf, 2018-12-14 The last few decades have seen a huge increase in attention paid to the trafficking of human beings often referred to as modern day slavery International and national policies and protocols have been developed and billions of dollars spent to combat the issue and protect trafficking victims Yet it continues to flourish and human beings in both the Global North and the Global South continue to be degraded to the level of commodities and smuggled across borders for profit Drawing upon feminist and human rights approaches to trafficking this book links the worlds of policy protocols and social structures to the lived experience and conditions of trafficked people Recognizing that trafficking for sex labor and body parts often overlaps in a broader context shaped by poverty violence and shrinking access to rights the authors offer a more thoroughgoing account of this social problem Only with such an integrated approach can we understand the exploitative conditions that make people vulnerable to trafficking and the progress as well as gaps in initiatives seeking to address it Eradicating Human Trafficking: Culture, Law and Policy Gabriela Curras DeBellis, 2021-12-13 With over 40 million people still enslaved around the world this book takes a closer look at the role of culture in society and how certain practices beliefs or behaviors may be fueling human trafficking beyond what the law can curtail The study reveals cultural elements that conflict with existing anti human trafficking laws across three case studies United States India and Costa Rica There is no simple answer or a single solution to stop or significantly reduce the crime but a pragmatic multi disciplinary and human rights approach to the problem may bring to light that efforts to curtail human trafficking will be in vain if we rely on law alone A fundamental shift in culture is imperative Exploiting People for Profit Simon Massey, Glynn

Caribbean Anti-Trafficking Law and Practice Jason Haynes, 2019-07-11 This monograph investigates the International European and Commonwealth Caribbean approaches to human trafficking from an Analytical Eclectic perspective It presents a compelling empirically based argument that although there is currently a panoply of measures aimed at preventing human trafficking prosecuting offenders and protecting trafficked victims in both Europe and the Commonwealth Caribbean these measures have in practice been fraught with a number of challenges whether of a normative institutional or individual nature The continued existence of these challenges strongly suggests that there exists a disconnect between anti trafficking law and practice which is not peculiar to small island developing States since they also extend to developed States including the United Kingdom Although these challenges are not insurmountable this monograph advances the argument that sustained social economic political and legal commitments are both necessary and desirable and that without such commitments only pyrrhic victories would be won in the fight to eradicate the scourge of the twenty first century Given the importance of the issue of human trafficking and its inescapable impact on victims families communities nations regions and the international community as a whole this monograph will serve as an important resource for policy makers scholars students and practitioners actively working in this increasingly dynamic area of law
