Competition in the Video and Broadband Markets United States. Congress. House. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Regulatory Reform, Commercial and Antitrust Law, 2014 FCC Record United States. Federal Communications Commission, 2017 Transforming Everything? Karen Mossberger, Eric W. Welch, Yonghong Wu, 2022 Broadband or high speed internet has been called the most important infrastructure challenge of the century It has the potential to connect remote communities streamline health care services and support innovation across education economics and numerous other fields Given the growing and widespread investments in broadband how can citizens and policymakers determine whether the promise of broadband is being fulfilled Transforming Everything offers a comprehensive guide to the complexities and possibilities of broadband as a social technology It addresses challenges for evaluating broadband initiatives across diverse contexts and proposes guidance and methods for evaluation for policymakers and researchers Contributors draw on pioneering research in program evaluation and information technology to explore broadband applications in health education and civic engagement They also address key measurement and evaluation challenges in the field today including issues in privacy and security and inadequate research methods for target populations Collectively the chapters in this volume raise important questions for improving research and evaluation in broadband use and producing actionable evidence in a highly dynamic environment Transforming Everything prepares readers with a critical understanding of broadband technology and the necessary evidence to assess whether broadband programs and policy are truly empowering the communities they serve Broadband Adoption United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation. Subcommittee on Communications, Technology, and the Internet, 2014 At a Tipping Point United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, 2015 Digital Cities Karen Mossberger, Caroline J. Tolbert, William Franko, William W. Franko, 2013-01-10 This analysis of how the ability to participate in society online affects political and economic opportunity finds that technology use matters in wages and income and civic participation and voting Choosing the Future Karen Mossberger, Caroline J. Tolbert, Scott J. LaCombe, 2021 Digital information drives participation in politics the economy and society Yet great disparities exist as to which communities have access to the internet In 2017 only half of residents of formerly industrial Flint Michigan had broadband or satellite internet at home while over 90 percent of those in thriving Sunnyvale California in Silicon Valley were connected More recently Covid 19 laid bare these persistent digital divides in both urban and rural communities illustrating that broadband use is a fundamental resource for the future of opportunity in communities While previous studies have examined the impacts of broadband infrastructure they have indicated little about the extent to which local populations can afford and use the technology Moreover there has been limited scientific evidence on how broadband adoption matters for collective benefits Including new data on broadband subscriptions from 2000 2017 and comprehensive analysis for U S states counties metros cities and neighborhoods Choosing the Future argues that broadband use in the population is a form of digital human capital that benefits communities as well as individuals Broadband has a causal impact across all types of communities for economic prosperity growth income employment and policy innovation Yet there are urban neighborhoods and rural counties where as little as one quarter of the population has a broadband subscription even when mobile is included As we build smart cities and communities as economies and jobs continue to experience rapid change and as more information and services migrate online it is communities with widespread broadband use that will be best positioned for inclusive innovation with the digital human capital to thrive

Digitally Invisible Nicol Turner Lee,2024-08-06 Billions of people around the world lack internet access No one cared until the whole world had to go online President Joe Biden has repeatedly said that the United States would close the digital divide under his leadership However the divide still affects people and communities across the country The complex and persistent reality is that millions of residents live in digital deserts and many more face disproportionate difficulties when it comes to getting and staying online especially people of color seniors rural residents and farmers in remote areas Economic and health disparities are worsening in rural communities without available internet access Students living in urban digital deserts with little technology exposure are ill prepared to compete for emerging occupations Even seniors struggle to navigate the aging process without access to online information and remote care In this book Nicol Turner Lee a leading expert on the American digital divide uses personal stories from individuals around the country to show how the emerging digital underclass is navigating the spiraling online economy while sharing their joys and hopes for an equitable and just future Turner Lee argues that achieving digital equity is crucial for the future of America's global competitiveness and requires radical responses to offset the unintended consequences of increasing digitization In the end Digitally Invisible proposes a pathway to more equitable access to existing and emerging technologies while encouraging readers to weigh in on this shared goal

permeate virtually every corner of policy creation and implementation in the United States yet theoretically driven research on interactions of policy race and ethnicity rarely offers practical tools that can be readily applied by current and future civil servants private contractors or nonprofit boards Arguing that scholarship can and should inform practice to address issues of equity in public affairs rather than overlook ignore or deny them Race and Public Administration offers a much needed and accessible exploration of current and cutting edge research on race and policy This book evaluates what contradictions unanswered questions and best or worst practices exist in conducting and understanding research that can provide evidence based policy and management guidance to practitioners in the field Individual chapters are written by established and emerging scholars and explore a wide range of policy areas including public education policing health and access to healthcare digital governance nonprofit diversity and international contexts Together the chapters serve as a link between theoretically informed research in public administration and those students and professionals trained to work in the trenches of public administration This book is ideally suited as a text for courses in schools of public administration public policy or nonprofit management and is required reading for those actively involved in policy analysis creation or evaluation Chapter 1 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license they just played on boys teams They went on to win six World Championships and played in three Olympics winning two silver medals and ultimately a gold medal in South Korea in 2018 for the USA Women s National Team They did not allow roadblocks and discrimination deter them from taking on their governing body USA Hockey threatening to boycott the 2017 World Championships and jeopardizing their ability to compete in the 2018 Olympics unless their gender equity issues were addressed The success of Monique Jocelyne and their team thrust them into the center of the struggle for gender equity for women in hockey and in sports in general as well as in society at large In Dare to Make History the Lamoureux twins chronicle their journey to the pinnacle of their sport their efforts along with almost 150 other hockey players to start a new professional women s hockey league their training to come back and make another national team after giving birth their tireless efforts to advance the interests of disadvantaged communities in closing the digital divide and their ongoing contributions as role models championing the dreams of future generations of girls in sports education and the workplace This is not a hockey book It is not a girls book It is a book about the importance of the fight for equity particularly gender equity It is the inspirational story of how two young women from a small town in North Dakota have dreamed big had the courage to take on huge battles and in the end how they have dared to make history

Educational Opportunity in Rural Contexts Sheneka M. Williams,Ain A. Grooms,2015-11-01 The impetus behind this volume stems from reflections on commemorations of the historic Brown v Board of Education decision Brown turned 60 in May of 2014 and many special issues of peer reviewed journals were dedicated to that anniversary Unlike most special issues and volumes we sought to highlight a smaller part of Brown though no less significant More specifically we thought to develop a volume that focused on rural education in the aftermath of the decision Most of the education policy and education reform literature caters to urban and suburban contexts and very few academic books and journal articles with the exception of research conducted by Craig Amy and Caitlin Howley and the Journal for Research on Rural Education focus on rural education in the US Thus we wanted this volume to focus on the politics of educational opportunity in rural contexts There is a paucity of rigorous research that examines how education policy affects the conditions of rural education More specifically research is scarce in examining the ways in which students in rural schools and districts have access to educational opportunities although approximately one third of all public schools are located in rural areas Ayers 2011 Educational opportunity in rural districts has been plagued by geographic isolation loss of economic bases and lack of capital both financial and political to voice the need for resources To be clear this volume does not present chapters that detail educational opportunity in rural districts and schools from a deficit perspective Instead chapters in this volume offer insight into both micro and macro level policies and practices that shape educational opportunities for students in rural schools and districts As such chapters in this volume investigate the now of educational opportunity for rural students and makes recommendations and suggestions for later Given that we are reminded of James Coleman s 1975 thesis Education is a means to an end and equal opportunity refers to later in life rather than the educational process itself p 28 This book will be organized into two distinct sections The first section comprised of chapters that examine educational opportunity in rural districts from a micro level perspective is devoted to chapters that broadly examine the implications of state and federal policy on educational opportunity in rural schools and districts The second section which includes case studies of rural districts in the American South Appalachia and the Northeast takes a macro level approach to examining educational opportunity in rural districts Combined chapters throughout the book provide readers with both an overview and a specific snapshot of educational opportunity in rural schools Given the breadth and scope of chapters included in this volume we believe the book adds tremendously to the education policy literature as this vantage point has rarely been included in larger education policy discussions
