National Audit Office (NAO) - Cabinet Office: Managing Government Suppliers - HC 811 Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2013-11-12 In this memorandum Managing government suppliers the NAO welcomes the fact that the Cabinet Office is now asserting government's position with contractors in way that its scale as a customer merits Specifically this has enabled government to get greater value from contracting and has sent signals that government is willing to be tough on underperformance However the Cabinet Office still faces a number of challenges in developing a more mature approach It is currently focused on short term savings and has adopted a robust approach with departments and suppliers which has enabled it to report significant savings from contract renegotiations However this approach will become harder over time and risks missing out on achieving longer term value for money through innovation and investment There is a balance to be struck between tough negotiations and maintaining relationship with suppliers in the long term if government is to maintain competition in public sector markets The Cabinet Office is seeking to reform commercial practice across Government with the development of the Crown Commercial Service There is a risk that the ambitions are not matched by the right resources capability and information It has gaps in commercial experience and expertise below senior levels while its information on its 40 strategic suppliers is inconsistent and incomplete A related report The role of major contractors in the delivery of public services HC 810 session 2013 14 ISBN 9780102987027 sets out some of the benefits that can be achieved through contracting but highlights issues that deserve greater public scrutiny

Borders Revisited Bastian A. Vollmer, 2021-08-12 The nature and configuration of borders and the relationship between state borders and societies have changed In the 21st century internationalism transnationalism and super diversity have further provoked complexities and anxieties It seems that as border and migration regimes undergo dramatic transformations their public profile increases This book revisits borders bordering practices and meanings with a particular focus on the United Kingdom as a case study Bastian A Vollmer examines not only the theoretical and historical dimensions of borders but also various empirical data including extensive text corpora and dozens of in depth interviews Expanding on the concept of vernacular security that is an everyday understanding of security he argues that the existential value of borders is not merely physical but extends into the order and future construction of states and societies This book demonstrates decisively that the concept of the border has not left the centre stage of philosophy political theory and political sociology but has instead emerged as a focal point for multidisciplinary engagements It further demonstrates how attention to a vernacular perspective can inform those engagements yielding vital insights As such it should appeal to students and scholars across disciplines interested in the contemporary development and relevance of borders and their discursive cultures Outsourcing in the UK Janice Morphet, 2021-04-15 In this comprehensive account Janice Morphet analyses the role and use of outsourcing within the UK public sector since the mid 1970s Morphet examines the many drivers for the use of outsourcing in the public sector including international agreements new public management performativity and austerity She also takes in to account the role and failures of the private sector and its response to the opening up of public sector competition By investigating the way that outsourcing has been used in different service sectors and across scales the book illustrates the impact it has had on ideology policy narratives and public expectations in the present Work of the Permanent Secretary (April - December 2011) Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Home Affairs Committee, 2012-05-29 The Committee identifies significant savings made through improved procurement practices which rose to 75 million in the first three quarters of the 2011 12 financial year It welcomes the fact that the Home Office is acting on its earlier recommendation to extend the use of the compulsory national framework for police procurement however expresses concern about the progress of the e borders programme and the lack of clarity over plans to introduce privatisation into policing The Committee found that the costly joint procurement exercise being undertaken by Surrey and West Midlands Police lacked clarity The Committee were not convinced that the Forces fully understood or were fully able to articulate the process they were undertaking With the overall costs of exploring this process set at 5 million the Committee called on the Home Office to take responsibility for ensuring the public and stakeholders were aware of the process and to postpone the exercise till after the election of the Police and Crime Commissioners Also despite the letting of new contracts to Serco and IBM in preparation for the London Olympics the Committee remains concerned about the progress of the e Borders programme The Committee also found that an unacceptable level of claims under the Riot Damages Act were still outstanding and recommends that the Home Office work with police authorities to publish a timetable for the payment of all outstanding claims All those who made a legitimate claim should receive their payments by the first anniversary at the latest another reveals the goal and effect of detention to be incomplete Denial requires effort In order to minimize the effort it must expend the state governs at distance via the contract It also splits itself in two deploying some immigration staff onsite while keeping the actual decision makers the caseworkers elsewhere sequestered from the potentially destabilizing effects of facing up to those whom they wish to remove Such distancing while bureaucratically effective contributes to the uncertainty of daily life in detention and is often the source of considerable criticism and unease Denial and familiarity are embodied and localized activities whose pains and contradictions inhere in concrete relationships Tracking People Anthea

National Audit Office, 2009 The Home Office has made substantial improvements in its financial management since 2006 when the Comptroller and Auditor General disclaimed an opinion on its 2004 05 Resource Accounts Further sustained improvement will still be needed over the next few years so that good financial management becomes business as usual across all of the Department's operations which will help the Department maximise the value for money of its service delivery. The Department has increased the number of professionally qualified finance staff particularly in senior finance roles and has improved financial governance and leadership. Improvements are also evident in the Department's financial planning and decision making, budgeting, financial monitoring and forecasting and financial reporting. The unqualified audit opinion on its 2007-08 Resource Accounts was an important symbol of the progress made. There are areas for further improvement. The strategic management of the Department's capital programme has not been responsive enough to avoid large underspends which amounted to 725 million over the 5 years to 31 March 2008. The Treasury has capped access to these funds at 292 million and the Department will need to deliver on the plans it has in place to use them by 2010-11. The Department also needs to develop further its understanding of the cost of its activities and the relationship between resource consumption and service outcomes. The Department recognises these issues and has been undertaking work with the aim of improving capital programme management and the basis on which decisions are made for funding allocations.

The Law and Economics of Enforcing European Consumer Law Franziska Weber, 2016-03-03. In the internet age the need for effective consumer law enforcement has arguably never been greater. This timely book is a comparative law and economic analysis of the changing landscape of EU consumer law enforcement policy. EU member states are moving away from purely public or private law enforcement and now appear to be moving towards a more mixed approach, not least due to European legislation. This book reflects on the need for and creation of efficient enforcement designs. It examines the various economic factors according to which the efficiency of different enforcement mechanisms can be assessed. Hypothetical case scenarios within package travel and misleading advertising, dealing with substantial individual harm and trifling and widespread harm, are used to illustrate various consumer law problems. Design suggestions on how to optimally mix enforcement mechanisms for these case scenarios are developed. The findings are then used as a benchmark to assess real life situations in countries with different enforcement traditions: the Netherlands, Sweden and England. The book is of value to both researchers and policy makers working in the area of consumer protection.

Central government's use of consultants Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2006-12-15. This NAO report sets out two definitions of consultancy: i) where individuals and companies are engaged to work on specific projects that are outside the client's business as usual; ii) where responsibility for the final outcome of the project largely rests with the client. Central government spent 1.8 billion on consulting in 2005-06. This report sets out a number of recommendations on the use of consultancy, including that public bodies need to be much better at identifying where core skill gaps exist; that consultants should only be employed after an assessment of in-house skills; all public bodies should adhere to OGC Office of Government Commerce guidance on consultancy contracts; public bodies should explore the market for the range of approaches and contracting methods available; and make more use of different payment mechanisms. Public bodies also need to be smarter when it comes to understanding how consulting firms operate and provide sufficient incentive to staff to make any consultancy project a success

Digital Era Governance Patrick Dunleavy, Helen Margetts, Simon Bastow, Jane Tinkler, 2008-06-19 Government information systems are big business, costing over 1 per cent of GDP a year. They are critical to all aspects of public policy and governmental operations. Governments spend billions on them; for instance, the UK alone commits 14 billion a year to public sector IT operations. Yet governments do not generally develop or run their own systems, instead relying on private sector computer services providers to run large, long-run contracts to provide IT. Some of the biggest companies in the world, IBM, EDS, Lockheed Martin etc, have made this a core market. The book shows how governments in some countries, the USA, Canada and the Netherlands, have maintained much more effective policies than others in the UK, Japan and Australia. It shows how public managers need to retain and develop their own IT expertise and to carefully maintain well-contested markets if they are to deliver value for money in their dealings with the very powerful global IT industry. This book describes how a critical aspect of the modern state is managed or, in some cases, mismanaged. It will be vital reading for public managers, IT professionals and business executives alike, as well as for students of modern government, business and information studies.

Hostile Homes Steven A. Hirschler, 2021-09-01 This book explores the ways in which the state and private security firms contribute to the direct and structural harm of asylum seekers through policies and practices that result in states of perpetual destitution exclusion and neglect By synthesising historic and contemporary public policy criminological and sociological perspectives political philosophy and the direct experiential accounts of asylum seekers living within dispersed accommodation this text exposes the complex and co dependent relationship between the state s social control aims and neoliberal imperatives of market expansion into the immigration control regime The title borrows from former Home Secretary Theresa May s pronouncement that the UK government aimed to foster a hostile environment in its response to illegal immigration While the Home Office later attempted to rebrand its hostile environment policy as a compliant environment this book illustrates how aggressive approaches toward the management of asylum seeking populations has effectively extended the hostile environment to those legally present within the UK Through an examination of the expanded privatisation of dispersed asylum housing and the UK government s reliance on contracts with private security firms like G4S and Serco this book explores the lived realities of hostile environments as asylum seekers accounts reveal the human costs of marketised asylum accommodation programmes
