Changing Universities:

Digital and Postdigital Learning for Changing Universities Maggi Savin-Baden, 2023-10-27 This book explores the purpose role and function of the university and examines the disconnection between students approaches to learning and university strategy It centres on the idea that it is vital to explore what counts as a university in the twenty first century what it is for and for whom as well as how it can transcend social divisions The universities of the twenty first century need to have larger audiences a broader voice a shift away from othering and an effective means of progressing such shifts What is central to such exploration is the idea that learning needs to be seen as postdigital With a focus on how the growth of technology has and continues to affect university learning this book explores the concepts of the digital and the postdigital promotes just and inclusive pedagogies for higher education considers ways to ensure learning is an ethical and political experience studies how to understand community and collective values through higher education suggests ways of promoting personal and collective responsibility for our world and its peoples presents ways in which the university can challenge ideologies based on capitalist modes of consumption privilege and exploitation Digital and Postdigital Learning for Changing Universities is essential reading for anyone seeking to reimagine the university in a postdigital age despite institutional structuration and government intervention It challenges current assumptions and practices and encourages new ways of thinking about higher education and learning in the twenty first century Universities in Change Andreas Altmann, Bernd

Ebersberger, 2012-09-10 Universities find themselves in dynamic change They are confronted with growing expectations from their stakeholders increasing international competition and new technological challenges Featuring insights and in depth case studies from leading researchers and university decision makers from around the world this book argues that institutions of higher education in order to be successful have to actively reflect on circumstances visions and strategies to master the future Drawing from their experiences across a diverse array of institutions in Europe Asia and the Americas the authors explore the pressures on today s universities and the opportunities for excelling in the contest for resources They discuss operational issues such as strategic management IT governance leadership development and entrepreneurial culture and broader concerns such as the roles and responsibilities of universities in promoting technology transfer and economic and social development The result is a resource that not only reveals and analyzes universities from an organizational perspective but presents best practice models and concrete inspiration for management and policymaking Changing

University Teaching Terry Evans, Daryl Nation, 2012-10-12 Behind the hype of the virtual university lies real change in the way practitioners approach university teaching This book focuses on the changes to teaching both on and off campus that have either come from or themselves influenced the development of educational technologies Women, Universities, and Change M. Sagaria, 2007-02-05 This volume analyzes how higher education responds to sociopolitical and economic influences affect gender equality at the nation state and university levels in the European Union and the United States

Changing Schools for Changing Times Kerry J. Kennedy, 2005 This book a statement of genuine concern on the state of the school curriculum in Hong Kong by a veteran educator forms a comprehensive account of current curriculum development implementation and interpretation Kennedy invites the reader to critically examine how local and global issues influence the way the Hong Kong curriculum has been constructed Against this theoretical background he maintains a clear practical focus on present policies of the educational authority and suggests a new curriculum in various fields This book sheds light on recent pressure for curriculum change and reform in Hong Kong offering fresh insights to those concerned with the state of education in both Hong Kong and cities around the world University Expansion in a Changing Global Economy Martin Carnoy, Prashant Loyalka, Maria Dobryakova, Rafiq Dossani, Isak Froumin, Katherine Kuhns, Jandhyala Tilak, Rong Wang, 2013-07-17 This is a study of higher education in the world's four largest developing economies Brazil Russia India and China Already important players globally by mid century they are likely to be economic powerhouses But whether they reach that level of development will depend in part on how successfully they create quality higher education that puts their labor forces at the cutting edge of the information society Using an empirical comparative approach this book develops a broad picture of the higher education system in each country in the context of both global and local forces The authors offer insights into how differing socioeconomic and historic patterns of change and political contexts influence developments in higher education In asking why each state takes the approach that it does this work situates a discussion of university expansion and quality in the context of governments educational policies and reflects on the larger struggles over social goals and the distribution of national resources Handbook of Research on the Changing Role of College and University Leadership Miller, Michael T., Gearhart, G. EBOOK: Entrepreneurialism in Universities and the Knowledge Economy: Diversification and Organizational Change in European Higher Education Michael Shattock,2008-12-16 How entrepreneurial are European universities Perhaps more than is generally realised What are the factors that encourage entrepreneurialism to flourish in research technology transfer teaching regional engagement and internationalization How do different kinds of HEIs comprehensive specialist regional or private address these issues What are the conditions which stimulate or inhibit the academic intrapreneur And in what forms does entrepreneurialism contribute to the knowledge economy This book which is the product of a major EU funded research programme and is based on twenty seven institutional case studies attempts to offer answers to these questions through a series of cross national thematic studies It considers how national systemic characteristics in financial arrangements human resource management and institutional governance impact on entrepreneurialism and suggests ways in which individual initiative can be released and universities freed up to make their contribution to the EU Lisbon Strategy

Climate Change Research at Universities Walter Leal Filho, 2017-06-02 This unique book provides a multidisciplinary review of current climate change research projects at universities around the globe offering perspectives from all of the natural and social sciences Numerous universities worldwide pursue state of the art research on climate change focussing on mitigation of its effects as well as human adaptation to it However the 2015 Paris 21st Conference of the Parties of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change UNFCCC COP 21 demonstrated that there is still much room for improvement in the role played by universities in international negotiations and decision making on climate change To date few scientific meetings have provided multidisciplinary perspectives on climate change in which researchers across the natural and social sciences could come together to exchange research findings and discuss methods relating to climate change mitigation and adaption studies As a result the published literature has also lacked a broad perspective This book fills that gap and is of interest to all researchers and policy makers concerned with global climate change regardless of their area of expertise

Universities and Climate Change Walter Leal Filho, 2010-09-30 Climate change is a matter of global concern and specific sectors of society such as universities need to engage and be active in the search for regional and local solutions for what is a global problem Despite the fact that many universities all around the world are undertaking remarkable efforts in tackling the challenges posed by climate change few of such works are widely documented and disseminated The book Universities and Climate Change addresses this gap The book pursues three aims Firstly it presents a review of the approaches and methods to inform communicate and educate university students and the public on climate change being used by universities around the world Secondly it introduces initiatives projects and communication strategies undertaken by universities with a view to informing students and other stakeholders in order to raise awareness on matters related to climate change Finally the book documents promotes and disseminates some of the on going initiatives

Disrupting Leadership in Entrepreneurial Universities Jill Blackmore, 2022-10-20 What is the future of the contemporary university and for those who lead them Considering leadership in the broadest sense including academic leadership teaching and research as well as leadership practices of those in formal management positions Jill Blackmore outlines how multiple pressures on universities have produced leadership practices in management and research which are more corporate than collegial and which discourage many academics from aspiring to leadership She uses a range of theoretical tools informed by critical and feminist organisational studies to unpack higher education and how it is being transformed in ways that undermine its core work of teaching and research Drawing from three Australian university case studies this book uses leadership as a lens through which to investigate the effects of restructuring of the higher education sector which have impacted differently on academic identities and careers

Universities, Disruptive Technologies, and Continuity in Higher Education Gavin Moodie, 2016-10-05 This book seeks to understand the effects of the current information revolution on universities by examining the effects of two previous information revolutions Gutenberg's invention and proof of printing in 1450 and the Scientific Revolution from the mid fifteenth to the end of the seventeenth century Moodie reviews significant changes since the early modern period in universities students libraries curriculum pedagogy lectures assessment research and the dissemination of these changes across the globe He argues that significant changes in the transmission and dissemination of disciplinary knowledge are shaped by the interaction of three factors financial technological and physical resources the nature structure and level of knowledge and the methods available for managing knowledge
