

DOCUMENT A

1. What kind of document is this? When was it written?
 - a. This document is an excerpt from a book that was written by an English historian and professor, Samuel Gardiner, for young students (so similar to a textbook, but is more prone to include biased information). It was written in 1891.
2. Who was the intended audience of this document?
 - a. The intended audience were students studying English history.
3. What are the author's main claims about what caused the Sepoy Rebellion?
 - a. Gardiner claims that the Sepoy Rebellion was caused by the greasing of animal fat on the cartridges, which caused "ignorant men" to "break out into deeds of unreasoning fury".
4. Do you think this is a trustworthy document? Why or why not?
 - a. This document does not appear to contain reliable information, because the excerpt does not discuss any other underlying causes that may have contributed to the Sepoy Rebellion. The source information also stated that this book was "an English textbook edited for American students", meaning that not all of the information may have been accurate, since it's a rewritten version. Also, it was written/published in 1891, which is 24 years after the event, further proving that the information may not be factual.

DOCUMENT B

1. Who is Campbell? When was the document written?
 - a. Sir Colin Campbell led British forces during the Sepoy Rebellion, and this document is from his book, Narrative of the Indian Revolt from its Outbreak to the Capture of Lucknow, which was written in 1858.

 - a. Unwise decisions were made to try to convert sepoys to Christianity, and sometimes this was compulsory.
 - b. The removal of the Muslim king of Oudh, the British took control of Oudh, and independent province.
3. According to Campbell, why did the British take control of Oudh?
 - a. The British took control of Oudh because "at length the system of government became too bad to be tolerated: the court was a mere hot bed of oppression, intrigue, and venality".
4. How does Campbell describe the residents of Oudh?
 - a. He describes them as being a peoples that are "not always governed by reason", and that prejudices were more prevalent because it was "a region sunk to barbarism".
