

Overview

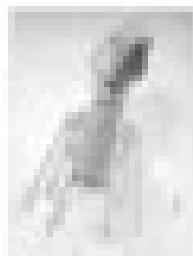

Experimental work with viruses has provided important evidence that genes are made of nucleic acids. Viruses were also important in working out the molecular mechanisms of DNA replication, transcription, and translation. Viruses have been important in the development of techniques of manipulating and transferring genes. As you learn about viruses in this chapter, you will build on the foundation necessary for an understanding of the molecular techniques of biotechnology.

Concept 18.1 A viral genome is a nucleic acid surrounded by a protein coat

1. What are some early evidence of the existence of viruses? Why were they difficult to study?
2. What was Wendell Stanley's contribution to our knowledge of viruses?
3. What are the four forms of viral genomes?
4. What is a capsid? What are capsomeres? What different shapes can capsids have?
5. In general, all virus coats of proteins are enclosed in a protein coat. Some coats also have a membranous envelope. What are the components of a viral envelope? Where is the envelope derived from the host cell, and which is of viral origin?

Viral Component	Description

6. What is the role of an envelope in animal viruses?
7. For the virus shown below, label the protein capsid, tail (if any), head, tail sheath, and genome.
 - a. Identify type of virus is this?
 - b. Identify this by name (virus)?
 - c. Where is its host?
 - d. Is the genome of this virus DNA, or RNA?

Concept 18.2 Viruses replicate only in host cells

8. What property of a virus determines its attachment to a host cell membrane?
9. Viruses are obligate intracellular parasites. What does this mean?
10. What is meant by latent stage? (Contrast between a virus with a latent host stage and one with an extremely infectious host stage, and give an example of each.)
11. Compare the host range for the rabies virus to that of the human coronavirus.
12. What components of the host cell does a virus use to reproduce itself?
13. How does a DNA virus reproduce its genome?
14. How do most RNA viruses replicate their genome?

15. On the figure of a simplified virus reproductive cycle, label growth to three basic processes: transcription, translation, replication, and cell assembly. Annotate your labels to explain the process of viral reproduction.

16. What are bacteriophages? (Contrast between animal and temperate phages.)

17. What portion of a phage enters the host cell? How does it do this?

18. What are restriction enzymes? What is their use in bacterial?

19. Why don't restriction enzymes destroy the DNA of the bacteriophage that produces them?

20. What are those ways bacteria stop an incoming phage?

21. What is a prophage?

22. How cells that have incorporated phage DNA into their genomes may continue to divide and propagate the viral genome, this might be considered somewhat like the Ti plasmid. What triggers the switchover from prophage to viral mode?

23. Label the following elements of the figure below: temperate phage, temperate cycle, late cycle, prophage, phage DNA, bacterial chromosome, and cell growth.

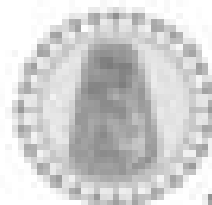

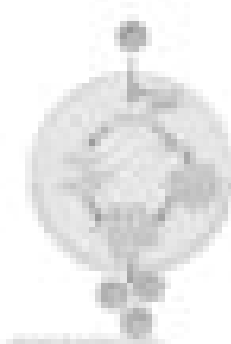

24. Describe the late and lysogenic modes of bacteriophage reproduction.

25. Think of viral genome differences between bacteriophages and animal viruses. What are two elements that nearly all animal viruses have?

26. What is a retrovirus? How do retroviruses, such as HIV, replicate their genomes?

27. There is a class of HIV called three parts envelope, reverse transcriptase, DNA, and capsid.

28. Compare and contrast a prophage and a provirus. Which one are you likely to carry?
