

- What environmental issue was exposed in Rachel Carson's book, Silent Spring? What was the exposure of her efforts?
 Carson's Silent Spring was the first of publications warning about the harm that pesticides could be causing nature and the risk of pesticides to birds. It also warned about the harm to other animals and the potential threat to humans. Carson's efforts led to the ban on DDT and the creation of the EPA.

Concept 52.2 Interactions between organisms and the environment limit the distribution of species

- What is biogeography? What factors determine the distribution of organisms?
 Biogeography is the study of the distribution of organisms. It is the study of the patterns of distribution of organisms. Factors that determine the distribution of organisms include climate, geography, and history.
- Read the section carefully to understand different types of experiments and observations that help explain the distribution of species. As you conclude this section, list and describe five examples of biotic factors.

Abiotic Factor	Example and Description
Food Availability	The availability of food is a major factor in the distribution of organisms. Organisms that are unable to find food will die, and those that do find food will survive and reproduce.
Water Availability	The availability of water is a major factor in the distribution of organisms. Organisms that are unable to find water will die, and those that do find water will survive and reproduce.
Climate Factors	Climate factors such as temperature and precipitation are major factors in the distribution of organisms. Organisms that are unable to tolerate the climate will die, and those that do tolerate the climate will survive and reproduce.
Competition/ predation/ herbivory/ Mutualism	Interactions between organisms, such as competition, predation, herbivory, and mutualism, are major factors in the distribution of organisms. Organisms that are unable to compete, avoid predators, resist herbivory, or form mutualistic relationships will die, and those that do will survive and reproduce.
Introductions	The introduction of new species, such as invasive species, is a major factor in the distribution of organisms. Invasive species can outcompete native species, leading to the extinction of native species.

- List five abiotic factors. Include an example and description of each factor's influence on living organisms.

Abiotic Factor	Example and Description
Soil Type	The type of soil is a major factor in the distribution of organisms. Organisms that are unable to tolerate the soil type will die, and those that do tolerate the soil type will survive and reproduce.
Temperature	Temperature is a major factor in the distribution of organisms. Organisms that are unable to tolerate the temperature will die, and those that do tolerate the temperature will survive and reproduce.
