Community Engagement and the COVID-19 Pandemic Tawnya Azar, 2025-06-24 Community engaged CE teaching is not a new concept. However, in the past several years, it has gained increased emphasis as is evident by the changes to institution mission statements and the allocation of institution resources to support faculty development in CE teaching as well as to support CE coursework and research. The arrival of the COVID-19 pandemic forced many faculty members to pivot to an all online instruction model, impacting community engaged teaching and research in both predictable and unexpected ways. Community partners facing similar struggles to serve their communities with restrictions on face to face interaction were often too overwhelmed to work with higher education volunteers. Legally, universities could not ask students to risk their health with face to face community engagement. In fact, the number of CE courses decreased dramatically in 2020 and 2021 due to the unique challenges posed by the pandemic. At the same time, the pandemic presented some CE faculty with new opportunities for community engagement. Some responded swiftly to the immediate needs of the local, regional, or national community with which they worked, taking advantage of the affordances of digital technology or capitalizing on the issues that the pandemic itself created or exacerbated. This collection captures the incredible work of pivoting and innovating in community engaged teaching. With a primary focus on community engaged teaching in higher education, this collection explores how faculty, students, and community partners navigated their work during the COVID-19 pandemic. Additionally, it raises important questions about how we might stay engaged with community during a crisis.

Conflict Zone, Comfort Zone Agnieszka Paczyńska, Susan F. Hirsch, 2019-01-07 By taking students out of their comfort zone, field based courses which are increasingly popular in secondary and postsecondary education have the potential to be deep transformative learning experiences. But what happens when the field in question is a site of active or recent conflict? In Conflict Zone, Comfort Zone, editors Agnieszka Paczyńska and Susan F. Hirsch highlight new approaches to field based learning in conflict zones worldwide. As the contributors demonstrate, instructors must leave the comfort zone of traditional pedagogy to meet the challenges of field based education. Drawing on case studies in the United States and abroad, the contributors address the ethical considerations of learning in conflict zones, evaluate the effectiveness of various approaches to teaching these courses, and provide guidelines for effecting change. They also explore how the challenges of field based classes are magnified in conflict and postconflict settings and outline the dilemmas faced by those seeking to resolve those challenges. Finally, filling a crucial gap in existing literature, the contributors identify best practices that will assist aspiring instructors in developing successful field based courses in conflict zones.
