Food Security And Development Country Case Studies:

Food Security and Development Udaya Sekhar Nagothu, 2014-11-13 The global food system is characterized by large numbers of people experiencing food insecurity and hunger on the one hand and vast amounts of food waste and overconsumption on the other. This book brings together experiences from different countries addressing the challenges associated with food security. Seen through various disciplinary lenses, the different cases included are countries at various stages of food security with diverse stories of success as well as failures in their efforts. China, Brazil, and India, as well as less developed countries in Africa and Asia such as Malawi, Ethiopia, Tanzania, Myanmar, Bangladesh, and the Philippines. The authors pay special attention to the environmental and socio-economic challenges in the respective chapters and how they contribute to food insecurity. Each of the case studies identifies and analyzes which factors or drivers—environmental, economic, policy, technology, markets—have been the most powerful shapers of the food system and their future impact. The case studies identify interventions at regional, national, and local level that contribute positively to food security, highlighting solutions that are effective and easy to implement for all levels of decision makers, from farmers to policy makers. Overall, the book provides insights in order to foster a greater understanding of the issues surrounding food security and support progress towards the goal of a sustainable food system for all. Food Security and Development Udaya Sekhar Nagothu, 2014-11-13

At the global level, international actors have repeatedly expressed their desire to end hunger and food insecurity. However, food insecurity has persisted. More analysis is hence needed on the link between continuously high levels of global food insecurity and the ever-increasing flow of development aid. Global Food Security and Development Aid investigates the impact that development aid has had on food security in developing countries and includes international case studies on Peru Ethiopia India and Vietnam It examines the effect of development aid in general and the impact of aid divided into different categories based on donor mechanism and sector to which it is provided In each examined relationship between aid and food security particular attention is paid to the potentially intervening role played by the quality of national and or local governance The book makes policy recommendations most importantly that donors should take greater care in considering which types of aid are suitable to which specific countries localities and development goals and account for expected developments in the complex relationship between aid food security and governance This book will be of considerable interest to students researchers and policy makers in the areas of development aid and food security

Climate Change and Agricultural Development Udaya Sekhar Nagothu, 2016-07-15 Two of the greatest current challenges are climate change and variability and food security Feeding nine billion people by 2050 will require major efforts aimed at climate change adaptation and mitigation One approach to agriculture has recently been captured by the widely adopted term of Climate Smart Agriculture CSA This book not only explains what this entails but also presents practical on the ground studies of practices and innovations in agriculture across a broader spectrum including agroecology and conservation agriculture in less developed countries It is shown that CSA is not a completely new science and a number of its recommended technologies have been used for some time by local farmers all over the world What is relevant and new is the approach to exploit their adaptation and mitigation potential However a major limitation is the lack of evidence based knowledge that is necessary for policy makers to prepare strategies for adaptation and mitigation This book assembles knowledge of CSA agroecology and conservation agriculture and perspectives from different regions of the world to build resilient food systems The first part analyzes the concept opportunities and challenges and provides a global perspective drawing particularly on studies from Africa and Asia The second part of the book showcases results from various studies linked to soil water and crop management measures from an ongoing program in India as well as experiences from other regions The third section assesses the needs for an enabling policy environment mainstreaming gender and some final recommendations for up scaling and or out scaling innovations

Trade Reforms and Food Security Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2006-01-01 The links between trade related policy reforms and food security is of key concern to many developing countries This publication sets out the findings of 15 country case studies from Cameroon Chile China Ghana Guatemala Guyana India Kenya Malawi Morocco Nigeria Peru Senegal Tanzania and Uganda The coverage includes countries at different stages of development with the main focus on low income countries that are likely to be at greater risk of food insecurity The studies examine the impact of trade related policy reforms on agricultural prices production and trade and the consequences for food security issues for each country

Sustainable Development in International Law Making and Trade Elisabeth Bürgi Bonanomi, 2015-09-25 This timely book provides an accessible insight into how the concept of sustainable development can be made operational through its translation into legal terms Understood as a multidimensional legal principle sustainable development facilitates coherent international law making Using this notion as an analytical lens on the WTO Agreement on Agriculture the book considers the unresolved question of what a sustainable and coherent agricultural trade agreement could look like

Rural Development Adam Pain,Kjell Hansen,2019-06-17 Rural Development is a textbook that critically examines economic social and cultural aspects of rural development efforts both in the global north and in the global south By consistently using examples from the north and the south the book highlights similarities of processes as well as differences in contexts The authors knowledge of Afghanistan and Sweden respectively creates a core for the discussions which are complemented with a wide range of other empirical examples Rural Development is divided into nine chapters each with a thematic focus ranging from concepts and theories through rural livelihoods and natural resources to discussions on policy and processes of change The book sees rural development as a multi level multi actor and multi faceted subject area that needs multidisciplinary perspectives both to support it and to analyse it Throughout the book examples of rural development interventions are discussed using analytical concepts such as power discourse consequences and context to grasp rural development as practices that are more than what is presented in policy documents The book is written in a way that makes it accessible for undergraduates while at the same time caters for the kind of deeper reading used by master students and Ph D s Every chapter is linked to discussion questions as well as suggested further readings and useful websites

Ensuring A Square Meal: Women And Food Security In Southeast Asia

Theresa W Devasahayam, 2018-08-21 Research on women and food security in Southeast Asia has been limited. The collection of chapters in Ensuring a Square Meal: Women and Food Security in Southeast Asia is one of the first attempts at providing a lens into the linkages between women and food security at the household, community, national and transnational levels. More broadly, the chapters examine women's contribution in households, resource distribution to produce food and the purchasing power to buy food. In analysing the various facets of food security in relation to gender, the analyses focus on the meanings of private and public and the extent to which the effects of the two spheres spill over into each other. Given women's critical role in food production and provision, the book assesses the structural forces enabling women to access productive resources and in turn ensure sustainable strategies for food security as well as it evaluates how governments might address the constraints women face in this vital role.

Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa Renu Modi, Fantu Cheru, 2013-08-08 The subject of food security and land issues in Africa has become one of increased importance and contention over recent years. In particular, the focus has shifted to the role new global South donors, especially India, China and Brazil, are playing in shaping African agriculture through their increased involvement and investment in the continent. Approaching the topic through the framework of South-South co-operation, this highly original volume presents a critical analysis of the ways in which Chinese, Indian and Brazilian engagements in African agriculture are structured and implemented. Do these investments have the potential to create new opportunities to improve local living standards, transfer new technology and knowhow to African producers and reverse the persistent productivity decline in African agriculture? Or will they simply aggravate the problem of food insecurity by accelerating the process of land alienation and displacement of local people from their land? Topical and comprehensive, Agricultural Development and Food Security in Africa offers fresh insight into a set of relationships that will shape both Africa and the world over the coming decades.

The Feminist Economics of Trade Irene van Staveren, Diane Elson, Caren Grown, Nilufer Cagatay, 2012-08-06 Unravelling the complex relationship between gender inequality and trade, this is the first book to combine the tools of economic and gender analysis to examine the relationship between international trade and gender relations. It brings together fourteen contributions from a variety of economic perspectives including structuralist, institutionalist, neoclassical and Post Keynesian, by a range of authors including Lourdes Benería, William Darity, Marzia Fontana and Mariama Williams to demonstrate what feminist economics has contributed to the analysis of international trade through theoretical modelling, econometric analysis and policy-oriented contributions. It includes evidence from industrialized, semi-industrialized and agrarian economies using country case studies and cross-country analysis. Arguing that trade expansion and reduction of gender inequality can be combined but only if an appropriate mix and sequence of trade and other economic policies is implemented, this book is key reading for all students of international economics, gender and cultural studies and politics and international relations amongst other disciplines.

Evaluation of FAO's contribution to Sustainable Development Goal 2 - "End hunger, achieve food security and improved nutrition and promote sustainable agriculture" Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations ,2020-11-03 FAO is well positioned at the global level to offer relevant support to countries in achieving their SDG 2 targets and is committed to support the SDGs a Global Agenda that it helped design The new FAO s Strategic Framework will provide an opportunity to promote and communicate FAO s role in a coherent and joined up manner aligned with the 2030 Agenda FAO has engaged with the current UN reform strongly connected to the SDGs with a very collaborative attitude At the country level which was the focus of the second phase of this evaluation FAO s position was found to be generally weaker due to its limited programmatic footprint Nevertheless a number of initiatives were acting at scale and producing results Entry points to act at scale include support to develop laws and policies to instigate agriculture trade and investment to induce climate finance or South South cooperation and to education both formal and informal The depth and breadth of partnerships are generally increasing but more partnerships with the private sector and mobilization of domestic resources would needed to make a serious impact on food systems

Agricultural Trade Policy and Food Security in the Caribbean Deep Ford,Dell'Aquila, C., (ed.),Piero Conforti,2007-01-01 Agricultural trade is a major factor determining food security in Caribbean countries In these small open economies exports are essential whilst imports provide a large part of the food supply This book examines various dimensions of trade policy and related issues and suggests policies to address trade and food security and rural development linkages It is as a guide and reference documents for agricultural trade policy analysts trade negotiators policy makers and planners in both the public and private sectors

Report of the Expert Consultation on International Fish Trade and Food Security ,2003-01-01 Recommendations made include the need for a background study and consultation on the normative framework for fish trade and food security for the preparation of technical guidelines on the Code of Conduct for Responsible Fisheries CCRF fish trade and food security and better training to improve capacity of policy makers and technical personnel on international issues dealing with fish trade and food security

Agricultural Development and Sustainable Intensification Udaya Sekhar Nagothu,2018-05-11 Sustainable Intensification SI has recently emerged as a key concept for agricultural development recognising that yields must increase to feed a growing world population but it must be achieved without damage to the environment on finite land resources and while preserving social and natural capital It also recognises that all initiatives must cope with the challenges of climate change to agricultural production food security and livelihoods This multidisciplinary book presents state of the art reviews of current SI approaches to promote major food crops challenges and advances made in technology and the institutional and policy measures necessary to overcome the constraints faced by smallholder farmers Adressing the UN s Sustainable Development Goal 2 the various chapters based on evidence and experiences of reputed researchers show how these innovations if properly nurtured and implemented can make a difference to food and nutrition security outcomes Case studies from around the world are included with a particular emphasis on Asia and Sub Saharan Africa The focus is not only on scientific aspects such as climate smart agriculture agroecology and improving input use efficiency and management but also on institutional and policy challenges that must be met to increase the net societal benefits of sustainable agricultural intensification The book is aimed at advanced students and researchers in sustainable agriculture and policy development practitioners policy makers and non governmental and farmer organisations

Achieving food security and industrial development in Malawi Arague, Emerta,Pauw, Karl,Pernechele, Valentina,2016-07-12 Restrictions on exports of staples or cash crops are frequently imposed in developing countries to promote food security or industrial development goals By diverting production to the local market these policies aim to reduce prices and increase the supply of food or intermediate inputs to the benefit of consumers or downstream industrial users Although export restrictions reduce aggregate welfare they are attractive to policymakers Governments gain support when they are seen to keep consumer prices low likewise politicians are swayed by industrial lobbyists who promise increased value addition in exchange for access to cheaper inputs This study weighs in on the debate around the desirability of export restrictions by simulating the economy wide effects of Malawi s longstanding maize export ban as well as a pro posed oilseed export levy intended to raise value addition in processing sectors Our results show that while export restrictions may have the desired outcome in the short run producers respond to weakening market prospects in the longer run by restricting supply often to the extent that the policies become self defeating Specifically maize export bans only benefit the urban non poor while poor farm households experience income losses and reduced maize consumption in the long run The oilseed export levy is equally ineffective Even when export tax revenues are used to subsidize processors gains in industrial value addition are outweighed by declining agricultural value addition as production in the fledgling oilseed sector is effectively decimated The policy is further associated with welfare losses among rural households while urban non poor households benefit marginally

OECD Rural Studies Adopting a Territorial Approach to Food Security and Nutrition Policy OECD,Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,United Nations Capital Development Fund,2016-04-29 Food insecurity and malnutrition are major concerns especially in rural areas Globally they have received considerable attention but results have been mixed To provide effective long term solutions policy responses must be tailored to the specific challenges of each territory
