Brakes Applied with Maximum Brake Pedal Pressure

If at any time the maximum permissible trailer braking pressure of 1740–2180 lb/in² (120–150 bar) is reached, for example by pressing excessively on the tractor brake pedals, an increase in braking pressure is prevented by the pressure relief element.

As pressure in the trailer braking circuit increases to the maximum permissible limit, the trailer brake circuit oil pressure forces the control spool and plunger against the springs in the pressure relief element. As the pressure relief element springs are compressed the control spool plunger moves to the right, allowing the oil trapped behind the flow regulating valve to return to reservoir through port 'G'. The flow regulating valve can now move to the right and prevent any further pump system pressure oil from being directed over the check valve to the trailer brake circuit.

The pressure relief element is pre-set in manufacture by shims and must not be adjusted in service.
