The EU's regulation on succession Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee, 2010-03-24 This is the sixth report from the European Union Committee of the 2009 10 session and looks at the EU's Regulation on Succession HLP 75 ISBN 9780108459757 In October 2009 the EU Commission proposed legislation which aims to simplify the law affecting those who die having exercised their right to free movement either by moving to another Member State to live or by buying property in a Member State other than their own The law of succession regulates how a person's property is dealt with on their death including the mechanism for paying taxes and other creditors establishing who is entitled to inherit the deceased's property and how that property is to be transferred to those entitled to it Where this involves the law of more than one Member State complications arise which can have a significant impact since the people affected are likely to be emotionally vulnerable because of bereavement The Committee states it welcomes the fact that the Commission has not proposed harmonisation of the substantive law of succession and support the Commission's underlying and more limited objective of prescribing which state's law of succession is to apply to the whole of a deceased person's estate but only to the extent of determining who is entitled to inherit what property The Committee believes to go further puts at risk important interests not least property rights the collection of taxes and the protection of creditors The Committee also identifies a serious defect in the EU's proposal that it could result in gifts made in the UK by deceased persons during their lifetime including gifts to charity being claimed back by their heirs under a process known as clawback

Diana Inquest: The French Cover-Up John Morgan, 2012-06-02 Diana Inquest The French Cover Up is the gripping story of how a culture of corruption and cover up was endemic throughout the investigation into the deaths of Princess Diana and Dodi Fayed It tracks the French investigation right from the initial minutes after the crash inside the Alma Tunnel through to the conclusion by Judge Stphan in September 1999 The culture of cover up that surrounded the early investigations into the crash is revealed in striking detail for example the thorough cleansing of the crash scene within several hours of the crash Using witness and documentary evidence including what was heard during the 2008 inquest this volume reveals that Henri Paul the driver of the Mercedes was not drunk This book reveals the major difficulties faced by the inquest jury substantial portions of the most critical evidence were withheld from them This eventually resulted in a seriously flawed verdict in one of the most important jury inquests of our modern era Metaphysics, Soul, and Ethics in Ancient Thought Ricardo

Reydon, Lia Hemerik, 2005-12-05

The present volume originated in 2001 when we together with our publishing editors at then Kluwer Academic Publishers realized that the following year the 50 volume of our journal Acta Biotheoretica would see the light We felt that this milestone should not pass unnoticed and that the appropriate way to mark it would be the publication of a special volume of papers on theoretical biology While editing this book during 2003 and early 2004 we realized that another milestone was not far off in 2005 it will be 70 years ago that the journal was founded We hope that the book lying before you will serve well to mark both events The papers collected here have been written on invitation by representatives of the theoretical biology community in The Netherlands They are intended to reflect the entire spectrum of topics on which Acta Biotheoretica publishes ranging from philosophy of biology on one end to mathematical biology on the other All chapters except our own introductory one have been peer reviewed according to the standards that are maintained with respect to regular submissions to Acta Biotheoretica Prém Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee, 2007-05-09

The Prém Treaty is an initiative by seven Member States to enhance cooperation in combating terrorism and serious cross border crime There is a move to incorporate it into EU law As it can only be adopted unanimously the Government is in a strong negotiating position and has already obtained agreement to delete a provision on hot pursuit The Committee recommend that they should also seek agreement on the estimated cost of incorporating the provisions The Prém Treaty is mainly concerned with the exchange of data which raises questions of data protection It is an opportunity to link the fight against crime with agreement on a Data Protection Framework Decision This report looks at both the Prém initiative and other related proposal that are genuine EU initiatives The Science Class You Wish You Had (Revised Edition) David Eliot Brody, Arnold R. Corcos, 2014-07-21 Alain F Corcos was raised by a family of nonbelievers When he grew up and pursued a career in science he encountered nothing to challenge his lack of faith In fact he would have considered his atheism completely unremarkable if not for the reactions he confronted again and again How can you be moral when you don t believe in God If you know you can t prove God doesn t exist doesn t that make you agnostic Aren t you afraid of death In Atheism Science and Me Dr Corcos reminisces about satisfying his thirst for knowledge through research rather than religious doctrine or philosophy While he has no interest in converting anybody to atheism the good natured enthusiasm with which he presents his worldview conveys the joys of a life unencumbered by religion
