Chicken-Something Dumplings

Wouldn't you like to know the secret baffling ingredient that makes these magically delicious dough dollops melt in your mouth? Well, now you will! From the famed Hungry Halfling in Patrick's Corner Day to nearly every halfling suppertime table across the land, this hearty, velvety concoction laden with homemade drop dumplings is the coziest of comfort foods. There are countless variants on this dish, with each halfling household claiming to serve the finest, but nothing beats the thick and stewy classic: a robust poultry stock base emboldened with the tastes of freshly picked veggies, thyme and garlic all co-mingled with creamy dough.

MAKE THE STEW

With a sharp paring knife, cut a 1-inch slash in the skin on each chicken thigh, and sprinkle the chicken all over with salt and pepper. In a large Dutch oven over medium-high, heat 2 ½ teaspoons of the olive oil until shimmering. Arrange half the chicken skin-side down in the Dutch oven, adjust the heat to medium, and cook, undisturbed, until skin is browned, about 5 minutes. Turn the chicken over and continue to cook, undisturbed, until the second side is browned, about 5 minutes more; adjust the heat if it starts to scorch. Transfer the chicken to a large plate and pour off the chicken fat from the pot and reserve. Return the pot to medium-high heat and repeat with the remaining 2 ½ teaspoons of the oil and the remaining chicken. Pour off and reserve any chicken fat (you should have at least 2 tablespoons). When the chicken is cool enough to handle, remove and discard the skin.

Thinly slice one of the leek halves. Cut the remaining three leek halves into 1-inch pieces to yield about 2 ½ cups.

Add the butter to the pot, return it to medium heat, and melt and swirl as the pot to coat. Add the thinly sliced leeks, bay leaves, thyme, and ½ teaspoon salt and cook, stirring constantly, until the leeks are softened, about 5 minutes. Add the garlic and flour and continue to cook, stirring, about 1 ½ minutes more. Add the sherry and bring to a simmer, stirring and scraping the pan bottom to loosen and dissolve any browned bits. Continue to simmer, stirring, until liquid is thickened and slightly reduced, about 1 minute more. Gradually add the broth, stirring vigorously to incorporate it smoothly. Add the chicken with its accumulated juices and return to a simmer. Adjust the heat to very low, cover, and simmer gently until the chicken is cooked through and very tender, about 1 hour, turning the chicken pieces over after about 30 minutes. Transfer the chicken to a plate.
