Fight Sports and American Masculinity Christopher David Thrasher, 2015-07-02 Throughout America s past some men have feared the descent of their gender into effeminacy and turned their eyes to the ring in hopes of salvation This work explains how the dominant fight sports in the United States have changed over time in response to broad shifts in American culture and ideals of manhood and presents a narrative of American history as seen from the bars gyms stadiums and living rooms of the heartland Ordinary Americans were the agents who supported and participated in fight sports and determined its vision of masculinity This work counters the economic determinism prevalent in studies of American fight sports which overemphasize profit as the driving force in the popularization of these sports The author also disputes previous scholarship s domestic focus with an appreciation of how American fight sports are connected to the rest of the world

Profile Pieces Sue Joseph, Richard Lance Keeble, 2015-10-14 This book examines the history theory and journalistic practice of profile writing Profiles and the practice of writing them are of increasing interest to scholars of journalism because conflicts between the interviewer and the subject exemplify the changing nature of journalism itself While the subject often through the medium of their press representative struggles to retain control of the interview space the journalist seeks to subvert it This interesting and multi layered interaction however has rarely been subject to critical scrutiny partly because profiles have traditionally been regarded as public relations exercises or as soft journalism However chapters in this volume reveal not only that profiling has historically taken many different forms but that the idea of the interview as a contested space has applications beyond the subject of celebrated individuals The volume looks at the profile's historical beginnings at the contemporary manufacture of celebrity versus the ordinary at profiling communities countries and movements at profiling the destitute at sporting personalities and finally at profiling and trauma
