Private Financing of Public Transportation Infrastructure Wendell C. Lawther, Lawrence L. Martin, 2015-10-22

This book discusses a unique combination of best practices and lessons learned including evaluation and transparency issues not found elsewhere in other texts Given that P3s are evolving and changing it contains the most up to date information and review of relevant sources Other topics that have become more important are reviewed including the value of benefit cost analysis and the appropriate discount rate to use for value for money analysis Practices and policies are discussed throughout highlighting efforts that could lead to successful outcomes Although transparency is an issue discussed by many this research indicates that greater transparency would lead to more publicly accepted P3s and ensure greater success Given recent national news coverage of relevant topics such as the Highway Trust Fund running out of money President Obama's call for an infrastructure fund and increasing Congressional interest and testimony the content of this book is timely A concurrent theme commonly addressed by other books and commentaries is the complexity of the topic and the lack of understanding of P3s This research identifies practices and procedures that are innovative and cutting edge Many of the best practices identified are not uniformly adopted by all officials wishing to create P3s The analysis does not simply describe these practices but provides insights into the potential advantages of adoption Experiences in the United States as well as selected international efforts provide a wide range of potential sources from which to draw upon This book provides a series of case studies and examples including one chapter devoted to ten studies that were written by several internationally known authors References to actual experiences are found throughout almost all of the chapters These case studies reinforce and illustrate relevant points made throughout

Infrastructure for the Built Environment: Global Procurement Strategies Rodney Howes,Herbert Robinson,2006-08-14 Throughout the world there is a growing demand for high quality public services to support socio economic development Infrastructure is central to improving the level of public services and the quality of the built environment But in key areas such as transport energy water healthcare education and communications public resources are not sufficient to keep pace with this demand As the public sector struggles to keep up the private sector is increasingly involved in the procurement of economic and social infrastructure Until now procurement strategies have often concentrated on the mechanisms and the bricks and mortar without a thorough analysis of the processes and their implications for services The result is that all too often infrastructure projects are implemented in an ad hoc and fragmented way In this ground breaking book Rodney Howes and Herbert Robinson provide a holistic approach to infrastructure provision that facilitates infrastructure delivery aimed at continuously improving the level and quality of services Critical issues of policy and strategy implementation and operational aspects are examined within the context of sustainability By emphasising the importance of procuring infrastructure within an overall national or regional development policy and strategy the authors have demonstrated the importance of linking investment and resource decisions to local social economic and environmental needs With each chapter carefully written to reflect part of the infrastructure delivery chain and illustrated with practical examples and case studies from around the world this book offers a new blueprint for infrastructure investment and resource management
