California Water Crisis and Its Impacts United States. Congress. House. Committee on Natural Resources, 2015

California's Water Concerns Preston Fitzgerald, 2015 In California the roughly 500 mile long Central Valley Project CVP one of the nation s largest water projects provides water for multiple uses including irrigation municipal supply power generation and fish and wildlife mitigation protection and restoration Reclamation which manages the CVP must balance these competing interests for water which is particularly important as California enters its fourth consecutive year of an extreme drought A series of federal laws enacted from 1992 through 2009 have affected Reclamation s management of the CVP the CVPIA Calfed Bay Delta and San Joaquin and Reclamation is one of the primary federal agencies that manages the programs established to implement specific activities authorized under the relevant legislation and requirements The U S Government Accountability Office was asked to examine Reclamation s use of funding for the three programs This book provides financial information for activities carried out under the CVPIA Calfed Bay Delta and San Joaquin programs including specific legal authorities under which Reclamation requested and expended funds since each program s inception through fiscal year 2014 and discusses drought in the United States

California's Salmon and Steelhead Alan Lufkin, 2023-11-15 Millions upon millions of salmon and steelhead once filled California streams providing a plentiful and sustainable food resource for the original peoples of the region But over the years dams and irrigation diversions have reduced natural spawning habitat from an estimated 6 000 miles to fewer than 300 River pollution has also hit hard at fish populations which within recent decades have diminished by 80 percent One species the San Joaquin River spring chinook became extinct soon after World War II Other species are nearly extinct This volume documents the reasons for the decline it also offers practical suggestions about how the decline might be reversed The California salmon story is presented here in human perspective its broad historical economic cultural and political facets as well as the biological are all treated No comparable work has ever been published although some of the material has been available for half a century In the richly varied contributions in this volume the reader meets Indians whose history is tied to the history of the salmon and steelhead upon which they depend commercial trollers who see their livelihood and unique lifestyle vanishing biologists and fishery managers alarmed at the loss of river water habitable by fish and at the effects of hatcheries on native gene pools Women who fish conservation minded citizens foresters economists outdoor writers engineers politicians city youth restoring streambeds all are represented Their lives and the lives of all Californians are affected in myriad ways by the fate of California s salmon and steelhead This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1991

Competition for California Water Ernest A.

Engelbert, 2024-03-29 California's water is at the center of an intense economic and political struggle. A balance between supply and demand must be reached but it is far from certain that all Californians will get as much water as they want at a price they feel is right. Competition for California Water presents essential information on key issues including Costs What would be the yields and what would be the costs in dollars as well as less tangible values of developing new sources of water Cost sharing How much of the cost of water development and distribution should be borne by the general public and how much by water users and other beneficiaries Environmental protection To what extent should environmental values be protected Conservation To what extent can the need for new water development be offset by conservation and more efficient use of water Institutional reform Can changes in the laws and institutions of California produce a more efficient system of water supply and management Agriculture How much increase in cost and or loss of water can California agriculture bear and still remain competitive Thirty one experts on all aspects of this topic project alternative futures for California's water supply Written in nontechnical language Competition for California Water is an invaluable source of information for Californians concerned with the future of their state This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1982
