Haynes, 2012-09-24 On Palm Sunday 1964 at the Second Presbyterian Church in Memphis a group of black and white students began a kneel in to protest the church's policy of segregation a protest that would continue in one form or another for more than a year and eventually force the church to open its doors to black worshippers In The Last Segregated Hour Stephen Haynes tells the story of this dramatic yet little studied tactic which was the strategy of choice for bringing attention to segregationist policies in Southern churches Kneel ins involved surprise visits to targeted churches usually during Easter season and often resulted in physical standoffs with resistant church people The spectacle of kneeling worshippers barred from entering churches made for a powerful image that invited both local and national media attention The Memphis kneel ins of 1964-65 were unique in that the protesters included white students from the local Presbyterian college Southwestern now Rhodes And because the protesting students presented themselves in groups that were mixed by race and gender white church members saw the visitations as a hostile provocation and responded with unprecedented efforts to end them But when Church officials pressured Southwestern president Peyton Rhodes to call off his students or risk financial reprisals he responded that Southwestern is not for sale Drawing on a wide range of sources including extensive interviews with the students who led the kneel ins Haynes tells an inspiring story that will appeal not only to scholars of religion and history but also to pastors and church people concerned about fostering racially diverse congregations

Preaching Prophetic Care Phillis Isabella Sheppard, Dawn Ottoni-Wilhelm, Ronald J. Allen, 2018-06-25 Preachers often think of prophetic preaching in the caricature of the prophet as the lonely outsider confronting the congregation often angrily with the congregation s complicity in social injustice and with a bracing call for repentance The twenty seven essays and sermons in this book offer a different perspective by viewing prophetic preaching specifically and ministry practical theology and theological education more broadly as pastoral care for the community in prophetic perspective Such preaching does indeed bring a critical theological analysis of justice concerns to the center of the sermon but in such a way as to invite the congregation to consider how the move toward justice is a pastoral move that is a move that seeks to build up community Rather than contributing to the polarization so rampant in today s social world the preacher seeks to help the congregation build bridges along which concern for justice can travel The contributions honor the work of the late Dale Andrews a scholar of preaching and practical theology at the Divinity School Vanderbilt University whose seminal work inspires the notions of prophetic care and building bridges to justice
