Multidisciplinary Academic Conference in Prague 2017 Czech Republic The 10th MAC 2017 in Prague Economics Common Sense for Smart Kids Anup Pandey,2014-10-08 Young children learn early that they cannot have everything they want Unfortunately they do not always understand why this is the case or why each choice comes with a cost When asked about the confusion for making choices they respond that it is the fault of someone else that this individual is just stopping them from getting their desired choice or that when they become adults choices will no longer be a problem There never seems to be enough money or time to have or to do everything one wants This Book tries to teach children how people decide to use scarce resources to satisfy their wants There are never enough resources to produce everything society wants Therefore choices should depend upon what to produce how to produce and for whom to produce After reading this book it is highly expected that children will develop an ability to make choices and understand the consequences of those choices on

Ferber, Julie A. Nelson, 2009-04-01 This is the first book to examine the central tenets of economics from a feminist point of view In these original essays the authors suggest that the discipline of economics could be improved by freeing itself from masculine biases Beyond Economic Man raises questions about the discipline not because economics is too objective but because it is not objective enough The contributors nine economists a sociologist and a philosopher discuss the extent to which gender has influenced both the range of subjects economists have studied and the way in which scholars have conducted their studies They investigate for example how masculine concerns underlie economists concentration on market as opposed to household activities and their emphasis on individual choice to the exclusion of social constraints on choice This focus on masculine interests the contributors contend has biased the definition and boundaries of the discipline its central assumptions and its preferred rhetoric and methods However the aim of this book is not to reject current economic practices but to broaden them permitting a fuller understanding of economic phenomena These essays examine current economic practices in the light of a feminist understanding of gender differences as socially constructed rather than based on essential male and female characteristics The authors use this concept of gender along with feminist readings of rhetoric and the history of science as well as postmodernist theory and personal experience as economists to analyze the boundaries assumptions and methods of neoclassical socialist and institutionalist economics The contributors are Rebecca M Blank Paula England Marianne A Ferber Nancy Folbre Ann L Jennings Helen E Longino Donald N McCloskey Julie A Nelson Robert M Solow Diana Strassmann and Rhonda M Williams
