Visualizing History's Fragments Ashley R. Sanders, 2024-06-19 This book combines a methodological guide with an extended case study to show how digital research methods can be used to explore how ethnicity gender and kinship shaped early modern Algerian society and politics However the approaches presented have applications far beyond this specific study More broadly these methods are relevant for those interested in identifying and studying relational data demographics politics discourse authorial bias and social networks of both known and unnamed actors Ashley R Sanders explores how digital research methods can be used to study archival specters people who lived breathed and made their mark on history but whose presence in the archives and extant documents remains limited at best if not altogether lost Although digital tools cannot metaphorically resurrect the dead nor fill archival gaps they can help us excavate the people shaped outlines of those who might have filled these spaces The six methodological chapters explain why and how each research method is used present the visual and quantitative results and analyze them within the context of the historical case study In addition every dataset is available on SpringerLink as Electronic Supplementary Material ESM and each chapter is accompanied by one or more video tutorials that demonstrate how to apply each of the techniques described accessed via the SN More Media App

The Ethics of Seeing Jennifer Evans, Paul Betts, Stefan-Ludwig Hoffmann, 2018-01-09 Throughout Germany's tumultuous twentieth century photography was an indispensable form of documentation Whether acting as artists witnesses or reformers both professional and amateur photographers chronicled social worlds through successive periods of radical upheaval The Ethics of Seeing brings together an international group of scholars to explore the complex relationship between the visual and the historic in German history Emphasizing the transformation of the visual arena and the ways in which ordinary people made sense of world events these revealing case studies illustrate photography's multilayered role as a new form of representation a means to subjective experience and a fresh mode of narrating the past

A History of Military Morals Brian Smith, 2022-04-25 The history of noncombatant immunity is well established What is less understood is how militaries have rationalized violating this immunity This book traces the development of how militaries have rationalized the killing of the innocent from the thirteenth century onward In the process this historiography shows how we have arrived at the ascendant convention that assumes militaries should not intentionally kill the innocent Furthermore it shows how moral arguments about the permissibility of killing the innocent are largely adaptations to material changes in how wars are fought whether through technological innovations or changes in institutional structures Seeing the Past with Computers Kevin Kee, Timothy J Compeau, 2019-01-24 Recent developments in computer technology are providing historians with new ways to see and seek to hear touch or smell traces of the past Place based augmented reality applications are an increasingly common feature at heritage sites and museums allowing historians to create immersive multifaceted learning experiences Now that computer vision can be directed at the past research involving thousands of images can recreate lost or destroyed objects or environments and discern patterns in vast datasets that could not be perceived by the naked eye Seeing the Past with Computers is a collection of twelve thought pieces on the current and potential uses of augmented reality and computer vision in historical research teaching and presentation The experts gathered here reflect upon their experiences working with new technologies share their ideas for best practices and assess the implications of and imagine future possibilities for new methods of historical study Among the experimental topics they explore are the use of augmented reality that empowers students to challenge the presentation of historical material in their textbooks the application of seeing computers to unlock unusual cultural knowledge such as the secrets of vaudevillian stage magic hacking facial recognition technology to reveal victims of racism in a century old Australian archive and rebuilding the soundscape of an Iron Age village with aural augmented reality This volume is a valuable resource for scholars and students of history and the digital humanities more broadly It will inspire them to apply innovative methods to open new paths for conducting and sharing their own research
