the part of those involved in the fight for animal rights The New Poverty Row Fred Olen Ray,1991-01-01 Since cinema's earliest beginnings there has been friction between producers and directors. Shady accounting practices which favored the distributors at the expense of the filmmakers were all too common causing many filmmakers to form independent companies to make and distribute their own product. This book examines six such low budget exploitation companies: Associated Distributors, Productions Filmgroup, Hemisphere Pictures, American General Pictures, Independent International Pictures, Dimension Pictures, and the author's own American Independent Productions. A brief history of each company, laced with quotes from the company's principals, is presented, followed by a filmography that lists all known credits for that company.

American International Pictures Rob Craig,2019-03-05 American International Pictures was in many ways the missing link between big budget Hollywood studios, poverty row B movie factories, and low rent exploitation movie distributors. AIP first targeted teen audiences with science fiction, horror, and fantasy, but soon grew to encompass many genres and demographics. At times it was indistinguishable from many of the major studios. From Abby to Zontar, this filmography lists more than 800 feature films, television series, and TV specials by AIP and its partners and subsidiaries. Special attention is given to American International Television, the TV arm of AIP, and an appendix lists the complete AITV catalog. The author also discusses films produced by founders James H. Nicholson and Samuel Z. Arkoff after they left the company. Color of Life Romanda Brown,2012-05 Intergration in 1964 was not a matter to be taken lightly. Claire Williams was one of many living in Montgomery, Alabama, who was not ready for such a drastic change. However, having faced an indescribable, horrifying crime, Claire was forced into a world she did not understand or even want to. Throughout the questionable journey, she inevitably confronts the teachings of a racial nurture in order to protect the most important value in time: life. Will the teachings of a corrupt background impede the right to an opportunity for a rightful existence? Or will maternal devotion prove grander than the outstanding outcome derived from pure abhorrence. Essential Skills and Practice, Grade 1
