Technology, Legal Education and Legal Profession in China and Australia Shu Zhang, Jie Luo, Peng Guo, 2025-02-04 This book adopts a comparative and empirical approach to the discussion relating to the subject matter. The book compares various selected topics in both China and Australia drawing attention to historical, contemporary and international characteristics. Also in discussing the topics, the authors will conduct surveys and interviews to get first hand materials and describe the real situations in both countries. To the best knowledge of the authors, this is the first time that this approach has been adopted to compare legal education and the legal profession focusing on China and Australia. This book introduces legal education and the legal profession in China and Australia to lay a foundation based on which it further compares them. More importantly, this book discusses some selected topics relating to legal education and the legal profession in the context of globalization, the digital age and COVID 19. The intended readership is an international audience including students at both undergraduate and graduate levels, legal scholars and legal practitioners in general and those in China and Australia in particular. This book intends to analyse the discourse of legal education and identify and create innovative ways of teaching and learning the law in China and Australia. It focuses on research theory and practice within legal education and the legal profession based on imaginative and sophisticated educational thinking from an empirical and comparative perspective. It also takes a broad view of theory and practice relating to legal education and the legal profession. It is sensitive to the diversity of contexts in which law is taught, learned and practised.

Legal Information Kent Olson, 1998-11-19 Now at last there is a comprehensive and readable guide designed to help librarians, scholars and the general public quickly find the legal information they need. While most legal research books focus on the needs of beginning law students or litigants, Legal Information takes a broader view of the law including its value in other disciplines. It explains why legal information exists in certain formats and describes how to get the most out of the major legal reference tools. It also suggests the best sources for different kinds of information and explains how these resources compare to other available materials.

Legal Education Through an Indigenous Lens Nicole Watson, Heather Douglas, 2024-12-04 This book provides a comprehensive resource for accommodating and pursuing Indigenous perspectives in legal education. The book is divided into three sections. The first section highlights the continuing issues that Indigenous people face in law schools and universities, including the ongoing impacts of colonisation and intergenerational trauma, institutional racism and exclusion. This section also includes chapters that explore arguments for the recognition of Indigenous legal knowledge and of the impact of settler law and the incorporation of Indigenous concepts, laws and ways of thinking about settler law across the curriculum. The second section explores how Indigenous ways of reading and thinking about settler law make a difference to how settler law is understood and interpreted. Contributors consider the power of storytelling and address the prospect of law's decolonisation. The third section of the book grapples with how traditional law school subjects can be taught through an Indigenous lens, including torts, public law, criminal law and sentencing, clinical legal education and native title. Throughout the book demonstrates the importance of and offers practical advice for teaching law in a way that includes critical Indigenous perspectives This book will be of enormous value to teachers researchers students in law legal studies and Indigenous studies and others with an interest in decolonising legal education The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license

Leading Works on the Legal Profession Daniel Newman,2023-07-28 This collection provides an innovative and engaging way of assessing the development of legal profession scholarship and its potential future development by presenting an analysis of the leading works of the discipline The book was written by prominent and emerging international scholars in the field with each contributor having been invited to select and analyse a work which has for them shed light on what the legal profession is and what it does The chapters explore the effect that the chosen work has had upon legal profession scholarship as a whole both within particular jurisdictions and internationally Contributors also reflect upon the likely implications of the leading work on the future study of and application to the legal profession They relate the works to recent and contemporary developments in law and access to justice such as the rise of technology impact of the Covid 19 pandemic and issues of funding to highlight the interpretative value of such scholarship Presenting an overview and introduction to the field of legal profession research the collection will be required reading for researchers looking to study any aspect of the legal profession It will also prove compelling for a wide variety of access to justice and justice system research projects The book will also appeal to scholars interested in legal ethics

Fighting for Political Freedom Terence C. Halliday,Lucien Karpik,Malcolm Feeley,2007-12-20 Across the world political liberalism is being fought for consolidated and defended That is the case for nations that have never enjoyed a liberal political society for nations that have advanced towards and then retreated from political liberalism for nations that have recently shifted from authoritarian to liberal political systems and for mature democracies facing terrorism and domestic conflict This book tests for the contemporary world the proposition that lawyers are active agents in the construction of liberal political regimes It examines the efficacy of a framework that postulates that legal professions not only orient themselves to a market for their services but can frequently be seen in the forefront of actors seeking to institutionalise political liberalism On the basis of some 16 case studies from across the world the authors present a theoretical link between lawyers and political liberalism having wide ranging application over radically diverse situations in Asia and the Middle East North and South America and Europe They argue that it is not the politics of lawyers alone but the politics of a legal complex of legally trained occupations centred on lawyers and judges that drives advances or retreats from political liberalism that political liberalism itself is everywhere in play in countries with established democracies and those without liberal politics and that it is now clear that the legal arena is a central field of struggle over the shape of political power The case studies presented here provide powerful evidence that the nexus of bar and bench in transitions towards or away from political liberalism is a force which has universal application
