Manufacturing Guilt (2nd edition) Barrie Anderson, Dawn Anderson, 2021-01-11T00:00:00Z Manufacturing Guilt 2nd edition updates the cases presented in the first edition and includes two new chapters one concerning the case of James Driskell and another regarding Dr Charles Smith whose role in forensic pathology evidence led to several wrongful convictions In this new edition the authors demonstrate that the same factors at play in the criminalization of the powerless and marginalized are found in cases of wrongful conviction Contrary to popular belief wrongful convictions are not due simply to unintended errors but rather are too often the result of the deliberate actions of those working in the criminal justice system Using Canadian cases of miscarriages of justice the authors argue that understanding wrongful convictions and how to prevent them is incomplete outside the broader societal context in which they occur particularly regarding racial and social inequality

Criminology Hillary Potter,2015-05-15 The use of intersectionality theory in the social sciences has proliferated in the past several years putting forward the argument that the interconnected identities of individuals and the way these identities are perceived and responded to by others must be a necessary part of any analysis Fundamentally intersectionality claims that not only are people s lived experiences affected by their racial identity and by their gender identity but that these identities and others continually operate together and affect each other With official statistical data that indicate people of Color have higher offending and victimization rates than White people and with the overrepresentation of men and people of Color in the criminal legal system new theories are required that address these phenomena and that are devoid of stereotypical or debasing underpinnings Intersectionality and Criminology provides a comprehensive review of the need for and use of intersectionality in the study of crime criminality and the criminal legal system This is essential reading for academics and students researching and studying in the fields of crime criminal justice theoretical criminology and gender race and socioeconomic class American Book Publishing Record ,2005 Prisoners on Criminology William S.

Mark C. Anarumo,2005 Anti terrorism is fast becoming an integral part of policing in the United States To meet the unique challenges posed by the threat of terrorism new skill sets are being added to the traditional functions of professional police organizations This is happening without much assistance from academia Professional organizations like the International Association of Chiefs of Police and sections of the Department of Justice have attempted to fill the void but the law enforcement community still requires guidance via sound empirical research if they are to succeed in meeting this threat to public safety After all the threat of terrorism in the United States is not new it has only gained prominence due to world events Police executives are being forced to ask the most basic of questions to assess the threat of terrorism in their jurisdictions Simply put they need to know of whom they should be afraid The wide range of unique terrorist groups operating in the United States today all with very specific goals and tactics makes the correct identification of the threat the key component to developing an effective anti terrorism strategy This question of who can be addressed through the employment of police skills already possessed by professional police organization such as surveillance and the use of informants Group identification is only the first albeit most crucial step in evaluating local threat The identification of which groups are predicted to act and the discovery of why these groups are feared is also key to developing a true understanding of terrorism The ultimate value of this research project to policy makers is the illustration of the fact that the answer to the question Do I have an effective local anti terrorism 10 program is addressed by first answering the question Who do I think is the local threat and why Criminology Today: an Integrative Introduction Ellen G Cohn, Frank M.
