Crime Aboriginality And The Decolonisation Of Justice:

Crime, Aboriginality and the Decolonisation of Justice Harry Blagg, 2008 Electronic format available at digital federationpress.com.au Crime Aboriginality and the Decolonisation of Justice explores contemporary strategies which might diminish the extraordinary levels of imprisonment and victimisation suffered by Aboriginal people in Australia. The book argues that enhancing Aboriginal ownership and control over justice and justice related processes is a key factor and focuses on ways this can be achieved. It explores the potential for hybrid initiatives in the complex liminal space between Aboriginal and non Aboriginal domains for example Aboriginal community night patrols, community justice groups, healing centres and Aboriginal courts. Harry Blagg disputes the relevance of the western urban criminological paradigm to the Aboriginal domain and questions the application of both contemporary innovations such as restorative justice and mainstream models of policing. He also refutes allegations that Aboriginal customary laws condone violence against women and children, pointing to the wealth of research to the contrary and suggests these laws contain considerable potential for renewal and healing.

Aboriginal Justice and the Charter David Milward, 2012-11-22 Aboriginal Justice and the Charter explores the tension between Aboriginal justice methods and the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, seeking practical ways to implement Aboriginal justice. David Milward examines nine legal rights guaranteed by the Charter and undertakes a thorough search for interpretations sensitive to Aboriginal culture. Much of the previous literature in this area has dealt with idealized notions of what Aboriginal justice might be. Here David Milward strikes out into new territory to examine why Indigenous communities seek to explore different paths in this area and to identify some of the applicable constitutional constraints. This book considers a number of specific areas of the criminal justice process in which Indigenous communities may wish to adopt different approaches, tests these approaches against constitutional imperatives and offers practical proposals for reconciling the various matters at stake. Milward grapples with the difficult questions of how Aboriginal justice systems can be fair to its constituents while complying with the protections guaranteed all Canadians by the Charter.

The Palgrave Handbook of Australian and New Zealand Criminology, Crime and Justice Antje Deckert, Rick Sarre, 2017-11-03 This handbook engages key debates in Australian and New Zealand criminology over the last 50 years. In six sections containing 56 original chapters, leading researchers and practitioners investigate topics such as the history of criminology, crime and justice data, law reform, gangs, youth crime, violent white collar and rural crime, cybercrime, terrorism, sentencing, Indigenous courts, child witnesses and children of prisoners, police complaints processes, gun laws, alcohol policies and criminal profiling. Key sections highlight criminological theory and crucially Indigenous issues and perspectives on criminal justice. Contributors examine the implications of past and current trends in official data collection, crime policy and academic investigation to build up an understanding of under researched and emerging problem areas for future research. An authoritative and comprehensive text, this handbook constitutes a long awaited and necessary resource for dedicated academics, public policy analysts and
