Criminality and Crime Glenn D. Walters,2022-03-09 Walters provides a detailed description of how criminal thinking serves as a vital link between criminality and crime Criminality the propensity to become involved in criminal activity and crime participation in a specific criminal event are normally treated as separate entities Most criminological theories in fact can be classified as either theories of criminality or theories of crime It is the author's contention that criminality and crime are two sides of the same coin and that criminal thinking can explain both The first of three sections explores the elements of criminality and crime across biological social cognitive and developmental forms The second section integrates the individual elements into three models using mediation and moderation methodologies Two of the models are designed to explain criminality moral and control and the third is designed to explain crime decision making The final section of the book emphasizes application and explains that change is a function of our ability to build competencies in offenders regardless of age The result is an integrated approach in which criminality and crime are viewed as indispensable parts of a larger theory of criminological development NIJ Program Plan, 1993 National Institute of Justice (U.S.),1993 Crime and Justice, Volume 44 Michael Tonry,2015-09-22 Volume 44 of Crime and Justice is essential reading for scholars policy makers and practitioners who need to know about the latest advances in knowledge concerning crime its causes and its

Media, Process, and the Social Construction of Crime Gregg Barak, 2013-10-28 First published in 1995 One of the most pervasive forms of social control in our society is the mass media The public learns from television newspapers magazines movies and books what is happening in the world and how to interpret it The problem however is that full or complete interpretations of reality are not presented In short reality itself clear and unadorned is not to be found in the information provided by the media Instead media presentations consist of those various viewpoints that succeed in capturing the minds and imaginations of the masses or in terms of the 1992 presidential campaign that successfully put the winning spin on information Barak and others believe that criminologists should participate in the various media presentations of crime and justice By bringing their knowledge to bear on media presentations criminologists can help make some news more representative and less distorted of the social reality of crime
