Restorative Justice and the Law Lode Walgrave,2012-12-06 Restorative justice has developed rapidly from being a barely known term to occupying a central role in debates on the future of criminal justice But as it has become part of the mainstream of debate so new tensions and issues have emerged One of the most crucial issues is to find an appropriate combination of restorative justice based essentially on informal deliberation and the law The purpose of this book is to analyse the several dimensions to this issue It explores the social and ethical foundations of restorative justice seeks to position it in relation to both rehabilitation and punishment and examines the possibility of developing and incorporating restorative justice as the mainstream response to crime in terms of the principles of constitutional democracy Amongst the questions it addresses are the following How are informal processes to be juxtaposed with formal procedures What is the appropriate relationship between voluntarism and coercion How can the procedures and practices of restorative justice be combined with legal standards safeguards and precepts How can one balance restorative responses with legally sanctioned punishment In this book a distinguished team of contributors consider this crucial set of relationships between restorative justice and the law building upon papers and discussions at the fifth international restorative justice conference in Leuven Belgium in September 2001 restorative justice has grown rapidly throughout the world this book addresses the central issue of relationship of restorative justice to existing law and legal systems chapters from world leading authorities

Criminal Behaviour from School to the Workplace Frank Weerman, Catrien Bijleveld, 2013-12-17 This volume focuses on the complex relation between offending and the transition from school to the workplace how employment and education are related to breaking the law and getting in contact with the criminal justice system The contributors report results from several large scale and sophisticated studies conducted in the Netherlands that gathered rich data on employment education and criminal behaviour Each of the studies focuses on a particular period during the life course and particular risk categories Taken together they contribute to our understanding of how getting out of school getting into a job and doing illegal things are intertwined over the life course and how these relations differ with age and gender The background of this volume is our interest in the often studied relation between offending and employment or more generally between offending and the transition from school to work including dropping out part time work and joblessness The available literature casts little doubt that employment and education are indeed related to less crime and offending However this relation is much more complex than it appears at first hand The volume is primarily aimed at researchers and students in the fields of criminology sociology and economics However it may also be of use for non academic professionals in particular policy makers and practitioners in the field of criminal justice probation rehabilitation and youth schools

A Criminology of Moral Order Hans Boutellier, 2019-01-16 Moral order is disturbed by criminal events However in a secularized and networked society a common moral ground is increasingly hard to find People feel confused about the bigger issues of our time such as crime anti social behaviour Islamist radicalism sexual harassment and populism Traditionally issues around morality have been neglected by criminologists Through theory case studies and discussion this book sheds a new and topical light on these concerns Using the moral perspective Boutellier bridges the gap between people's emotional opinions on crime and criminologists' rationalized answers to questions of crime and security

Crime, Victims and Justice Marijke Malsch, 2017-03-02 Victims of crime are still marginalized in criminal law practice even though an increasingly large number of legislatures have introduced reforms on their behalf. This collection of papers from some of the leading experts in the field sets out to provide a better understanding of the problems associated with restorative justice with the aim of improving criminal law in the area. Questions asked include whether retribution may be plausibly reinterpreted as restoration by offenders on behalf of victims; the relationship between criminal law and tort law; and issues relating to the rights of victims

International Police Cooperation Frederic Lemieux, 2013-01-11 The globalization of threats and the complexity of international security issues represents a greater challenge for international policing in reshaping inter-agency interaction and makes effective international police cooperation more necessary than ever before. This book sets out to analyse the key emerging issues and theory and practice of international police cooperation. Paying special attention to the factors that have contributed to the effective working of police cooperation in practice and the problems that are encountered, this book brings together original research that examines opportunities and initiatives undertaken by agencies, practices and processes introduced, as well as the impact of external legal, political and economical pressures. Contributors explore emerging initiatives and new challenges in several contexts at both national and international levels. They adopt a diversity of approaches and theoretical frameworks to reach a broader understanding of current and future issues in police cooperation. Forms of police cooperation and trends in crime control are examined drawing upon the following disciplines: criminology, ethics, organizational science, political science, and sociology
