LeVine,2010-04-26 Psychological Anthropology A Reader in Self in Culture presents a selection of readings from recent and classical literature with a rich diversity of insights into the individual and society Presents the latest psychological research from a variety of global cultures Sheds new light on historical continuities in psychological anthropology Explores the cultural relativity of emotional experience and moral concepts among diverse peoples the Freudian influence and recent psychoanalytic trends in anthropology Addresses childhood and the acquisition of culture an ethnographic focus on the self as portrayed in ritual and healing and how psychological anthropology illuminates social change Bulletin of the National Council on Religion in Higher Education ,1928 Bulletin National Council on Religion in Higher Education (U.S.),1928 Cognitive Behavioral Therapy Sandro Misciagna,2020-07-08 Cognitive behavioral therapy CBT is a modern type of short term psychotherapy that integrates cognitive and behavioral theories The CBT approach is effective in the treatment of a wide range of mental issues and conditions such as generalized anxiety disorders general or post traumatic stress panic attacks depression eating and sleep dysfunctions obsessive compulsive disorders and substance dependence CBT is also effective as an intervention for psychotic personality and bipolar disorders or to approach fatigue and chronic pain conditions especially if associated with distress This book explains both theoretical and practical aspects of CBT along with case examples and contains useful tools and specific interventions for different psychological situations Impossible Training Emanuel Berman,2013-04-15 Over the past century psychoanalysis has gone on to establish training institutes professional societies accreditation procedures and models of education thus bringing into uneasy alliance all three impossible pursuits In Impossible Training A Relational View of Psychoanalytic Education Emanuel

Berman turns his attention to the current status and future prospects of this daunting project Berman is ideally suited to tackle the impossibility of psychoanalytic education A graduate of two psychoanalytic institutes one in Israel and one in America he has devoted much of his professional life to psychoanalytic education and the organizational issues embedded in it In Impossible Training Berman describes the complex emotional and organizational dynamics of psychoanalytic training Placing these issues within the context of major controversies in psychoanalytic history he shows how generations of students have either idealized a proper analytic identity which evolves into a persecutory ideal or rebelled against these standards Are such persecuting and infantilizing trends inherent in analytic training he asks or can psychoanalytic education transcend them through changes in its structure and rules For Berman the relational and intersubjective trends in contemporary psychoanalysis call for changes in analytic supervision not least of which is heightened attentiveness to the many relationships that gain expression in the supervisory process Envisioned in this relational manner supervision can become a more personal experience less guarded and more conducive to the development of a fertile transitional space between supervisor and supervisee Anchoring his consideration of the present in the controversies of the past Berman concludes by considering the mission of psychoanalytic educators today to provide trainees with the resources to cope creatively with the as yet unknown challenges of tomorrow

Curriculum, Personal Narrative and the Social Future Ivor F. Goodson, 2014-06-05

Recent writing on education and social change and a growing number of new governmental initiatives across Western societies have proceeded in denial or ignorance of the personal missions and biographical trajectories of key public sector personnel. This book stems from an underpinning belief that we have to understand the personal biographical if we are to understand the fate of social and political initiatives. In education a pattern has emerged in many countries around the world. Each new government enshrines targets and tests to ensure that teachers at the frontline delivery are more accountable. Whilst this often provides evidence of symbolic action to the electorate or professional audiences the evidence at the level of service delivery is often far less impressive. Targets, tests and tables may win wide support from the public but there are often negligible or even contradictory effects at the point of delivery enforced by the ignorance or denial of personal missions and biographical mandates. This book locates most of its analysis and discussion at the point of culture clash between centralised dictates and individual and collective life missions. Whilst the early part of the book considers a range of issues related to school curriculum the focus on the biographical and life narrative becomes increasingly important as the analysis proceeds. Curriculum, Personal Narrative and the Social Future will be of key interest to practising teachers, educational researchers and students on teacher training courses, postgraduate courses and doctoral courses.

The Routledge International Handbook of Children, Adolescents and Media Dafna Lemish, 2013-07-18

The roles that media play in the lives of children and adolescents as well as their potential implications for their cognitive, emotional, social and behavioral development have attracted growing research attention in a variety of disciplines. The Routledge International Handbook of Children, Adolescents and Media analyses a broad range of complementary areas of study including children as media consumers, children as active participants in media making and representations of children in the media. The handbook presents a collection that spans a variety of disciplines including developmental psychology, media studies, public health, education, feminist studies and the sociology of childhood. Essays provide a unique intellectual mapping of current knowledge exploring the relationship of children and media in local, national and global contexts. Divided into five parts, each with an introduction explaining the themes and topics covered, the handbook features 57 new contributions from 71 leading academics from 38 countries. Chapters consider vital questions by analyzing texts, audience and institutions including the role of policy and parenting in regulating media for children, the relationships between children's on-line and off-line social networks, children's strategies of resistance to persuasive messages in advertising media and the construction of gender and ethnic identities. The Handbook's interdisciplinary approach and comprehensive international scope make it an authoritative state-of-the-art guide to the nascent field of Children's Media Studies. It will be indispensable for media scholars and professionals, policy makers, educators and parents.
