Chicago Crimes Anonyme:

Crime & Hollywood Incorporated Françoise Clary, L ouvrage rassemble des communications bilingues anglais français issues du colloque tenu à l'université de Rouen sur la représentation filmique de la criminalité aux États-Unis de 1929 à 1951. Les liens d'Hollywood avec le crime organisé, mafia urbaine, grand banditisme posent diverses questions. L'hybridation hollywoodienne du gangster devenu le vecteur d'un nouveau système de valeurs ne tend-elle pas à apparenter la transgression à un jeu. L'esthétique de la violence n'accroît-elle pas la fascination des jeunes pour toute déviance légitimant la mort virtuelle comme unique solution en cas de conflit. Les studios hollywoodiens fondent-ils leur puissance et leur légitimité sur la diffusion de valeurs illicites. Le recueil montre tout d'abord que la diffusion de ces nouveaux comportements répond des choix économiques puis il aborde les rapports entre idéologie et société, traite ensuite de la censure et enfin réexamine l'esthétique de la violence.

Women and Children as Victims and Offenders: Background, Prevention, Reintegration Helmut Kury, Sławomir Redo, Evelyn Shea, 2016-06-01. This work compiles experiences and lessons learned in meeting the unique needs of women and children regarding crime prevention and criminal justice in particular the treatment and social reintegration of offenders and serves as a cross disciplinary work for academic and policy making analyses and follow up in developing and developed countries. Furthermore it argues for a more humane and effective approach to countering delinquency and crime among future generations. In a world where development positively depends on the rule of law and the related investment security two global trends may chart the course of development: urbanization and education. Urbanization will globalize the concepts of justice and fairness; education will be dominated by the urban mindset and digital service economy just as a culture of lawfulness will. This work looks at crime prevention education as an investment in the sustainable quality of life of succeeding generations and at those who pursue such crime prevention as the providers of much needed skills in the educational portfolio. Adopting a reformist approach this work collects articles with findings and recommendations that may be relevant to domestic and international policymaking including the United Nations Studies and their educational value for the welfare of coming generations. The books address the relevant United Nations ideas by combining them with academic approaches. Guided by the Editors' respective fields of expertise and in full recognition of academic freedom and organized scepticism it includes contributions by lawyers, criminologists, sociologists and other eminent experts seeking to bridge the gap between academic and policy perspectives as appropriate against the international background including the United Nations developments. The first volume opens with a foreword by Marta Santos Pais, the United Nations Special Representative of the Secretary General on Violence against Children and a general introduction by the editors. Part I provides an overview of United Nations principles for crime prevention and the treatment of women and children. Part II concentrates on education and the social learning of children and adolescents. The importance of quality education is stressed as is its impact on the behaviour of children of all ages. It also includes a discussion of the factors that still hinder access to good schooling in many parts of the world Part III presents international research findings on children juveniles and women both as victims and offenders Statistics show overwhelmingly that these groups are more often victims than offenders The National Training and Information Center ,2000 Crime Fiction, 1749-1980 Allen J. Gender Responsive Justice Karen Evans, 2017-07-20 At the end of the twentieth century a step change in thinking about the offending behaviour of women began to impact on policy makers concerned with the treatment of female offenders. A growing number of nations, states and organisations both national and supra national in nature began to acknowledge that existing criminal justice and especially penal practices had not been sufficiently attentive to women's needs and had discriminated against women as a result. The concept of gender responsive justice, an orientation to working with women and girls based around a consideration of the special needs of women as prisoners and their particular pathways to offending has been developed as a result. This book explores the development of this concept, the theories which have informed it, policy arenas in which gender responsive justice has been attempted and the practices of gender responsive justice which have subsequently emerged. This book takes a global perspective as it outlines the different international and national arenas within which gender responsive justice gained favour and considers what has been learned from this novel and feminist inspired approach. Gender responsive justice has not been without its critics however and this book also examines the different arguments which have been used to attack or critique the concept from varied perspectives. This book lays down a clear theoretical framework for understanding gender responsive justice and will be useful in assessing current and future policy making in this area.

A conceptual analysis is developed in order to define the concept of testimonial evidence.
