Nothin' but Blue Skies Edward McClelland, 2013-05-21 The Upper Midwest and Great Lakes region became the arsenal of democracy the greatest manufacturing center in the world in the years during and after World War II thanks to natural advantages and a welcoming culture Decades of unprecedented prosperity followed memorably punctuated by riots strikes burning rivers and oil embargoes A vibrant quintessentially American character bloomed in the region's cities suburbs and backwaters But the innovation and industry that defined the Rust Belt also helped to hasten its demise An air conditioner invented in Upstate New York transformed the South from a sweaty backwoods to a nonunionized industrial competitor Japan and Germany recovered from their defeat to build fuel efficient cars in the stagnant 1970s The tentpole factories that paid workers so well also filled the air with soot and poisoned waters and soil The jobs drifted elsewhere and many of the people soon followed suit Nothin but Blue Skies tells the story of how the country's industrial heartland grew boomed bottomed and hopes to be reborn Through a propulsive blend of storytelling and reportage celebrated writer Edward McClelland delivers the rise fall and revival of the Rust Belt and its people

Chicago's Southeast Side Rod Sellers, Dominic A. Pacyga, 1998-10 Steel and the steel industry are the backbone of Chicago's southeast side an often overlooked neighborhood with a rich ethnic heritage Bolstered by the prosperous steel industry the community attracted numerous strong willed people with a desire to work from distinct cultural backgrounds In recent years the vitality of the steel industry has diminished Chicago's Southeast Side displays many rare and interesting pictures that capture the spirit of the community when the steel industry was a vibrant force Although annexed in 1889 by the city of Chicago the community has maintained its own identity through the years In an attempt to remain connected to their homelands many immigrants established businesses churches and organizations to ease their transition to a new and unfamiliar land The southeast side had its own schools shopping districts and factories As a result it became a prosperous yet separate enclave within the city of Chicago America, History and Life ,2007 Article abstracts and citations of reviews and dissertations covering the United States and Canada Exit Zero Christine J. Walley,2013-01-17 Winner of CLR James Book Prize from the Working Class Studies Association and 2nd Place for the Victor Turner Prize in Ethnographic Writing In 1980 Christine J Walley s world was turned upside down when the steel mill in Southeast Chicago where her father worked abruptly closed In the ensuing years ninety thousand other area residents would also lose their jobs in the mills just one example of the vast scale of deindustrialization occurring across the United States The disruption of this event propelled Walley into a career as a cultural anthropologist and now in Exit Zero she brings her anthropological perspective home examining the fate of her family and that of blue collar America at large Interweaving personal narratives and family photos with a nuanced assessment of the social impacts of deindustrialization Exit Zero is one part memoir and one part ethnography providing a much needed female and familial perspective on cultures of labor and their decline Through vivid accounts of her family s struggles and her own upward mobility Walley reveals the social landscapes of America s industrial fallout navigating complex tensions among class labor economy and environment Unsatisfied with the notion that her family s turmoil was inevitable in the ever forward progress of the United States she provides a fresh and important counternarrative that gives a new voice to the many Americans whose distress resulting from deindustrialization has too often been ignored This book is part of a project that also includes a documentary film Great Lakes and Midwest Catalog Partners Book Distributing,2004 International Photography: Exhibitions Andrew H.
