ADHD and Anxiety: Causality Sequences Through a Biopsychosocial Model Hongbao Cao, Shaolei Teng, Sha Liu, 2025-08-18 ADHD Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder and anxiety disorders are two of the most common psychiatric conditions often co existing in the same individuals The relationship between these disorders is complex and multifactorial in nature The biopsychosocial model postulates that biological psychological and social factors all play a significant role in human functioning in the context of disease or illness which includes these disorders Evidence suggests that ADHD can predispose individuals to anxiety and vice versa However the causality

sequences as explored in the literature remains limited. It is possible that ADHD symptomology causes anxiety or the genetics behind ADHD causes anxiety symptoms. Current research has adopted a more complex nuanced understanding of both disorders acknowledging the unique interactions of biological, psychological and social factors and large datasets e.g. Dunedin datasets may help with developing a stronger causality sequence. It is also noteworthy that severe anxiety can look like ADHD but the treatment is totally different as ADHD meds Stimulants can make anxiety worse.

The Lowering of Higher Education in America Jackson Toby, 2017-07-05 Few in the United States will dispute the assumption that every high school graduate should be entitled to go to college regardless of financial need But should everyone be able to go regardless of academic preparedness Jackson Toby explores the idea that federal financial aid programs all of which peg student aid to need alone and not to academic performance are dragging down college admissions and academic standards to the point where America's schools students and economy will no longer be globally competitive After a half century of teaching distinguished educator Jackson Toby concludes that our current system all too often gives both high school and college students the impression that college is an entitlement and not a challenge The Lowering of Higher Education Why Student Loans Should Be Based on Credit Worthiness is Toby's unflinching look at this broken system and the ways it can be fixed This volume documents just how far college admission standards have fallen and measures the cost of remedial programs designed to get underprepared high school students to the level they should have been at in the first place Toby is both pointed and frank in his discussion on the issue of grade inflation which rewards laziness while demoralizing hard working students To reverse the national decline of academic standards in American colleges Toby proposes a radical solution Let federal student aid be tied to academic performance as well as financial need incentivizing students to develop serious attitudes and study habits in high school and keep them up in college
